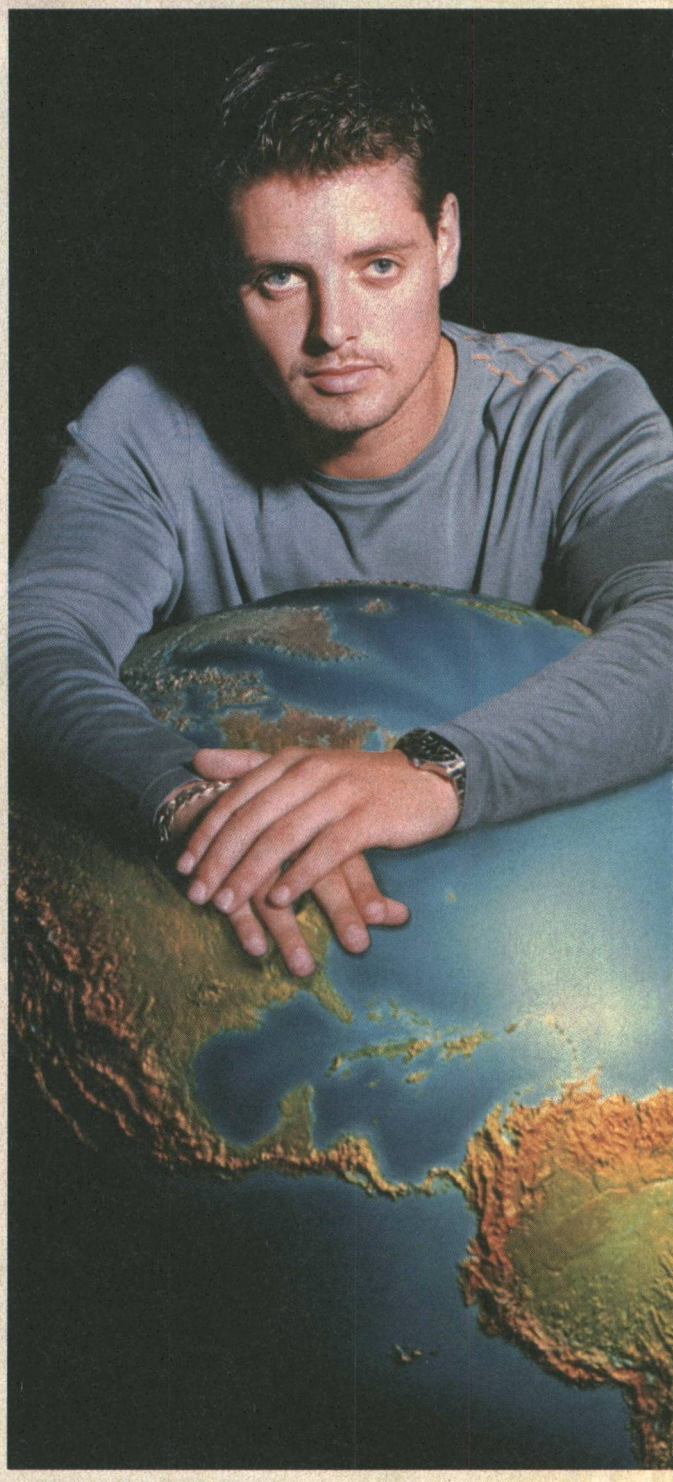
Ex-Eternal member Kelle Bryan talks about her new career as a presenter

Each month Cable Guide's Brian Viner reviews what's new and happening with the stars

KEITH CHANGES KEY



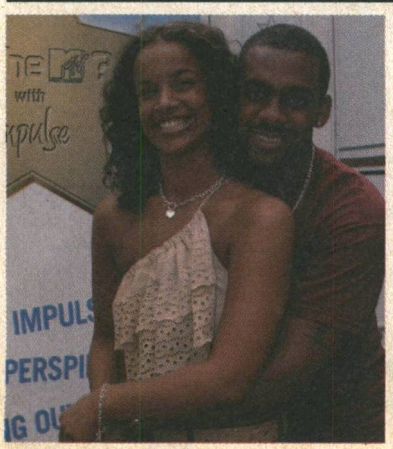
Keith Duffy has not sung for two years. And the Boyzone vocalist has no plans to do so. 'Not unless I have the four members of Boyzone standing beside me,' he tells me. 'But I never say never.' In the meantime, Duffy is carving out a promising career as a television presenter, and his next project is to front ITV2's travel adventure series The Race, in which four teams of two compete to cross the globe in the quickest time.

Duffy is an appropriate choice as presenter, given the extent of his own travels. I ask which places have most impressed him. 'I could easily live in Australia,' he says. 'And Bali and Bahrain are great for holidays. And Buenos Aires is a beautiful place.' It must help, not least in Buenos Aires, to be Irish rather than English, I venture. 'Yes, but I've been to some places where they haven't even heard of Ireland,' he says. 'And to others where they only seem to know Ireland through U2 or CNN.'

Before Boyzone made it big, Duffy was an architecture student. He seems slightly embarrassed by this, insisting that his father pushed him into it only because he was good at technical drawing at school. Why he is coy about his architectural studies I'm not sure. Perhaps he thinks Boyzone fans will find it a bit square, or even boldly rectangular. But I persevere, asking which city has the nicest buildings. 'Prague,' he says, after a while. And which of the few parts of the globe yet unvisited would he still like to see? 'I'd love to go to Swaziland, but mainly because I have family there.' Family in Swaziland? 'Yeah, if you have five or six hours to spare I'll tell you the story. Basically, my grandfather worked in the diamond mines in Zambia and my Uncle Kieran was sent to live with us. My mother raised him as her own, but then he went back out to Africa and married a local girl.'

Duffy lives, with his wife and two children, in Dublin. 'I might live somewhere else if I was single,' he says, 'but we're so grounded there. I think Ireland is the greatest place on Earth. The scenery, and the warmth of the people, is unbelievable.' He sighs. 'It's a shame the weather is so poxy.'

The Race, ITV2, Wednesday 10th, 8.00pm, then Thursdays, 10.00pm



Liverpool one

Lynsey France, a 25-year-old from Toxteth in Liverpool, was understandably thrilled to win the contest to find a new MTV presenter to accompany Richard Blackwood. But instead of punching the air on receiving the news, she froze in disbelief. 'All I could hear was my sister screaming,' she says. Her sister had travelled with her from Liverpool to London for the final day of screen tests, in one of which she had to improvise a report somehow comprising 'Eminem, a naked old person, a party in the park, 50,000 people, and a good old knees-up'. France rose to the challenge, pretending that she was reporting live from a concert in Sefton Park in Liverpool, at which a performance by Eminem was interrupted by an elderly, and doubtless rather slow, streaker.

France, one of nine children, says that her family is 'over the moon' at her good fortune. But she concedes that the lifestyle change could be unsettling. Her father, 'phones me a million times a day saying, "Are you OK?" But there's no way to prepare for it. All I can do is try to stay normal. I'm keeping my flat in Liverpool, I'm definitely not looking for a celebrity boyfriend, and I don't want a big, bad stalker. Mind you, I would like to walk down Sunset Boulevard, just to see whether it's anything like Upper Parliament Street in Toxteth.'

France identifies Robbie Williams and Destiny's Child as her favourite pop acts. 'And I love the Beatles, of course.' As for presenters, her role models are Sara Cox and Davina McCall. 'I like it that they're just themselves,' she says. 'It's almost like they're not trying. I want to be like that. But I will be trying.'

MTV on Call, MTV, weekends, 12.00pm

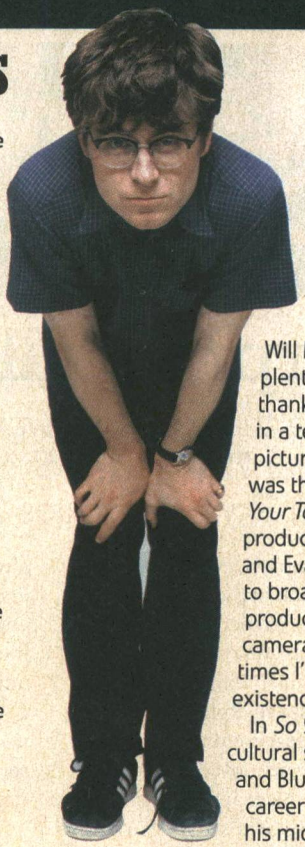
OFFICE POLITICS

Ricky Gervais originally intended to become a scientist, which might explain the forensic precision with which he writes and directs The Office, the series set in a Slough paper merchants which was one of the hits of the summer. Gervais went to university to study biology, but switched to philosophy when he realised the biology lectures started at 9.00am. Had he stuck with those 9.00am lectures, he might now be a distinguished biologist, or even a not-so distinguished one, rather than the creator of a character that has been likened to comic immortals such as Captain Mainwaring and Basil Fawlty.

David Brent, his alter ego in The Office, is grotesquely pompous, childish and insensitive. Not so Gervais, who is gently witty and self-effacing. Gervais grew up on a council estate in Reading. 'I don't think the people of Reading are very happy that I've put them on the map,' he says. 'They're probably thinking, "Why can't a proper celebrity like that lovely Davina McCall come from Reading, instead of that fat bloke."' Actually, I doubt it. Any town should be proud to lay claim to a man whose answer to the question, "What three things would you rescue from your house in the event of a fire?", posed in a magazine questionnaire, was 'the cat, the salamander, and one of the twins.' In fact, he and his partner Jane Fallon have no children. 'We're not sure about kids,' says Gervais, who is 40. 'They cost a lot of money, don't they? Maybe we can get one who's about 22 and a solicitor.'

The Office, Play UK, Fridays, 9.40pm

Will's wonder years



Will MacDonald owes Chris Evans plenty, but he doesn't particularly thank Evans for the two hours he spent in a television editing suite studying pictures of their boss on the toilet. It was the final edition of Don't Forget Your Toothbrush, which McDonald produced and frequently appeared on, and Evans thought it a fabulous wheeze to broadcast footage of the series producer sitting on the loo, via a secret camera. 'That was definitely one of the times I've questioned the value of my existence,' MacDonald tells me.

In So 90s, MacDonald considers the cultural success stories, such as Oasis and Blur, of the decade in which his own career began to take shape. Now in his mid-30s, for him the definitive decade remains the 1970s, even though he lived at the time in 'the rough, tough town' of Ascot, Berkshire, some distance from culture's cutting edge. 'I still well up when I watch those nostalgia shows about the 1970s,' he says. 'And I wonder whether things will be as meaningful in the future for people who are now nine or 10. Because there were only three TV channels then, whereas now there are about 78. I don't think it's quite the same.'

What, I ask MacDonald, was the first single he bought? 'I'm afraid it was The Funky Gibbon, by the Goodies,' he says. 'And I also had My Boomerang won't come Back, by Charlie Drake. But my first album was Hunky Dory, by David Bowie, so that was a bit more cool.'

Having left Evans' production company, Ginger, MacDonald has now formed his own company. Does he still see Evans? 'No. It's not that I've fallen out with him, just that he lives his life that way. If you're with him, you drink with him. If you're not, you don't. Anyway, my liver's only just recovered.'

THE GIRL NEXT DOOR

The rise and rise of Lorraine Kelly can be attributed to many things. For example, she might be into her 40s but she still comes across like the girl next door – especially if you happen to live in East Kilbride. Kelly's Scottish accent must sometimes befuddle her neighbours in the Home Counties, but it is part of her charm that she never pretends to be anything she is not. If she did, then Joyce Woodrow would not be her best friend any more.

They were at school together, and Kelly is thrilled that her old mate has moved further and further south, and now lives just 10 minutes away.

Kelly's new interactive morning show is now in full swing. No sooner does she finish presenting for GMTV, than she pops up on Sky One. 'There isn't even any time to change,' she says. 'So I have to make sure I like what I'm wearing.'

It seems rude to mention it, especially as Kelly is such a delightful person and so apparently guileless, but what with the new show, plus the old one, not to mention the newspaper columns she writes, she must be coining it. 'Oh, I don't get paid that much,' she says, disarming me with a giggle. 'It's not megabucks.' Nonetheless, she must have more than she quite knows what to do with. What are her extravagances? 'I suppose my main extravagance is travelling. I'm saving up to go to Alaska, and I'm desperate to go to Siberia. Have you read In Siberia by Colin Thubron? It's fantastic. I really want to go.'

She's prepared for the bitter cold, she says. With Siberia and Alaska at the top of her wish-list, she obviously rather likes it. Perhaps it will make her feel as if she's back in East Kilbride in mid-February. Besides, if anyone can warm up Siberia and Alaska, Kelly can.

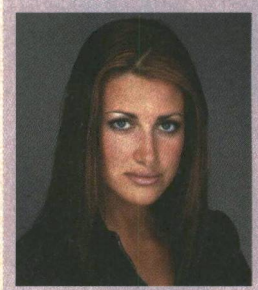
Celebrity gossip with Sky News' showbiz guru

NEIL SEAN

Sky Sports star Kirsty Gallacher could be all set for a pop career. The beauty recorded a spoof promo of Geri Halliwell's cover of It's Raining Men for a show trailer and instantly received offers for a record deal. But for the moment she is planning to stick with sport – what a relief for Geri.

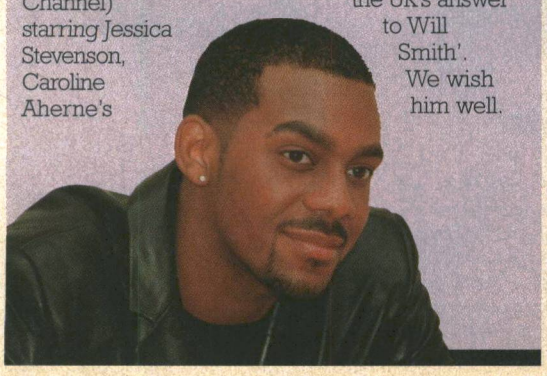


Fans of the Harry Enfield shows (UK Gold) will be pleased to learn that fresh from Kevin & Perry Go Large, Harry is about to turn another of his famous characters into a big screen idol – Tim Nice But Dim. Tim gets a chance to show he's not quite so dim when he runs for the leadership of a political party.

If you enjoyed cult comedy Spaced (Paramount Comedy Channel) starring Jessica Stevenson, Caroline Aherne's Royle Family mate, you'll be pleased to know that rumour has it the show is about to be snapped up by a US TV network. Jessica told me that although the deal has yet to be finalised, it's almost there. What would Denise Royle have to say?

Oasis, the bad boys of British rock are back, and celebrating 10 years of fame. You can catch them in the Sky Box Office 10 Years of Noise and Confusion Concert, broadcast on Sunday 14th (£9.99). The band will only play a total of six venues, in London, Manchester and Glasgow. All the dates are sold out, so this is your chance to see them live!

Could we be losing the multi-talented TV presenter/rapper Richard Blackwood to the US? The MTV jock had a call from the office of Doctor Dolittle star Eddie Murphy, where it appears he's in line for a role in the star's next film. Richard told me: 'It's a dream come true. I want to go out there unknown and come back as the UK's answer to Will Smith'. We wish him well.



IN PRODUCTION

Enterprise allowance

Enterprise, the eagerly awaited prequel to the original Star Trek series, is set to make its maiden voyage on Sky One, writes Thomas Simpson

In Enterprise, the new Star Trek series coming to Sky One in the New Year, Captain Jonathan Archer really is going where no man has gone before – that's because the drama unfolds during the infancy of deep space exploration and over 100 years before events depicted in the original and much-loved 1960s series.

Executive producer and co-creator Brannon Braga sets the scene: 'Poverty, crime, disease, hunger have all been eradicated on Earth for the most part, but the Federation has not yet formed. Starfleet is very, very young and the crew of the Enterprise has met very few alien species since the Vulcans arrived.'

'The Captain Picards and even the Captain Kirks of the world tended to take meeting alien races for granted,' co-creator Rick Berman adds. 'For this crew, it's a pretty spooky occasion. It's always something that's filled with awe and excitement, and a little bit of fear and trepidation, because they're really like any one of us, if we were to find ourselves in a situation where we're about to run into an alien species. It would be a pretty scary thing and certainly not a day-by-day occurrence the way it would be for a Picard.'

The crew is led by Quantum Leap's Scott Bakula as Jonathan Archer. 'He's kind of a free-spirited guy,' Bakula says. 'He's not afraid to say what he thinks, or to buck authority. We're finding it all very interesting to try and make all these things new because we're all so familiar with what Star Trek has been. And we have to kind of unlearn all of that and start from scratch. So this character is bold and brash and the closest to Kirk than any of the other captains.'

LIVING IN WILL & GRACELAND

Are you one of those who have caught the infectious Will & Grace bug? If so, you'll be pleased to know that more is in store from the flatmates and their friends when season three of the multi-award winning series premieres on LivingTV next month. And not only that – season four follows just behind.

DINOMITE

It's said to be a cross between Jurassic Park, Indiana Jones and Star Wars. The stunning portrayal of humans and dinosaurs living together in harmony will be brought to life in Dinotopia – a six-hour miniseries set to air on Sky One next year. Based on the first two Dinotopia books by James Gurney, the series combines Jim Henson creations, computer animation and live action. And at a cost of almost £55m, you can bet this will be a dramatic spectacle worth seeing.

MUSIC TO YOUR EARS

The MTV Europe Music Awards 2001 will take place at the Festhalle in Frankfurt, and will broadcast live on MTV on 8 November. The eighth annual event is set to feature Destiny's Child, Dido and Janet Jackson. And with a potential audience of one billion worldwide, that's some publicity worth courting!

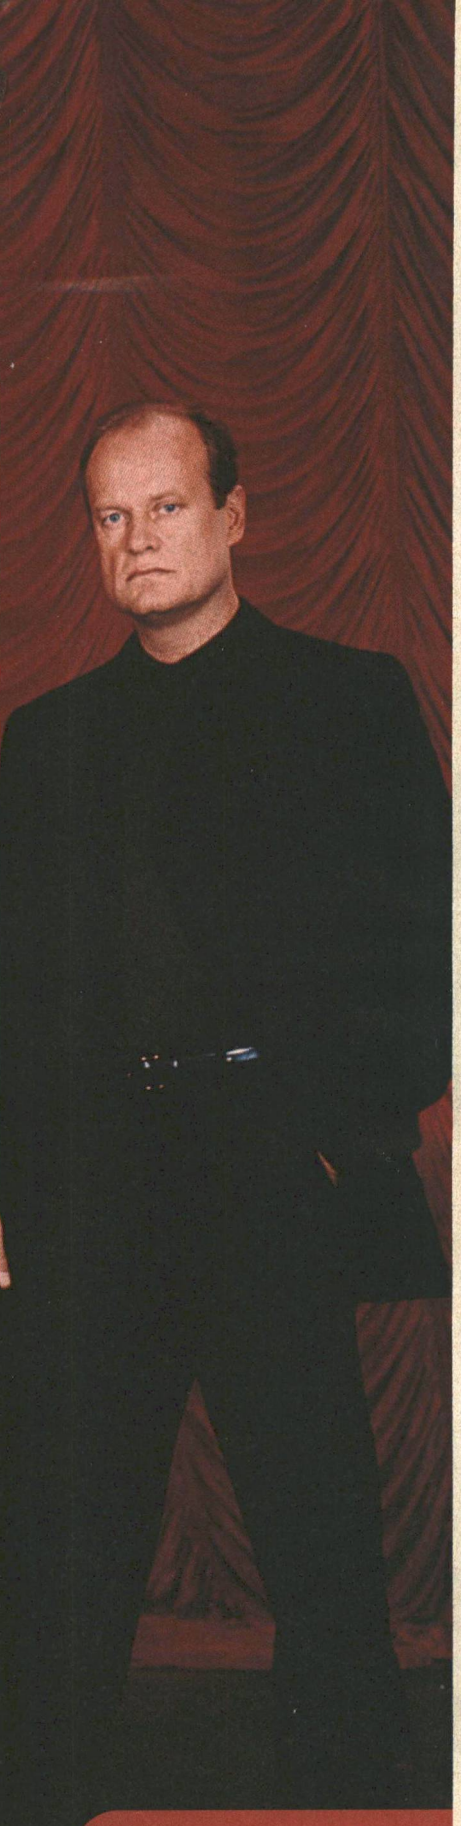
Frasier, starring Kelsey Grammer, has become one of the most successful sitcoms of all time, breaking records for audience figures and awards. To celebrate the new series on Paramount Comedy Channel this month, we look back at some favourite Frasier episodes and classic quotes

NEW SERIES

Frasier

Paramount Comedy Channel, Monday-Thursday, from 2nd, 10.00pm



The Complete Frasier

SEASON 1 The Good Son

Frasier Crane moves back to his hometown of Seattle and into a luxury apartment and a job as a radio psychiatrist. But then his brother Niles informs him that their father, Martin, a policeman, can no longer live on his own, after being shot while on a raid.
Suddenly Frasier's new bachelor lifestyle is under threat, with Martin, his dog Eddie, his home-care nurse, the psychic Daphne, and a tatty old armchair all moving in.

Frasier: 'I mean "burden" in its most positive sense.'
Martin: 'As in, "Gee, what a lovely burden"?'

SEASON 2 Breaking the Ice

Martin is all ready for his annual ice-fishing trip with his pal Duke, when Duke suddenly calls and cancels.
Niles, wanting to get closer to Martin, decides to go along, while Frasier, worried that Martin never says 'I love you' to him while he hears him say it to Eddie, goes along as well, in the hope of some father-son bonding.

Frasier: 'Did Dad just say "love you" to the dog?'
Daphne: 'Oh that's nothing – I had an aunt who used to say "Good evening, Mr Vanderpump" to a hat rack.'

SEASON 3 Moon Dance

Daphne teaches Niles how to dance in time for his country club's annual Snow Ball, and then ends up accompanying him when his date cancels at the last minute. In attempting to impress the high-society guests, the pair dance the tango with such passion that it causes Niles to profess his love for Daphne.

Martin: 'You don't think I see the way you look at Daphne? You're sticking a fork in a toaster there.'
Niles: 'Well, my muffin's stuck.'

SEASON 4 Head Game

Niles becomes the talk of Seattle after a brief session with the local basketball team's slumping star, Reggie Mclemore, turns the player's fortunes around. Initially proud of himself, Niles is mortified to learn that Reggie believes his good luck is due to patting Niles's hair, rather than taking his professional advice.

During a game, Niles tries to talk sense into Reggie.
Niles: 'You have to look at this logically. I can't come down here for every game and I certainly can't go with you when the team is on tour. This is not a long-term solution. What you need is legitimate therapy. You want to start? Come inside, I'll give you a quick session.'
Reggie: 'Yeah, you're right, Doc. What I need is a long-term solution.'
Niles: 'Good.'
[Reggie turns to one of his team-mates who has just come outside.]
Reggie: 'Yo, Frank, let me see those scissors.'

SEASON 5 Frasier's Imaginary Friend

Frasier returns from a holiday in Acapulco after a torrid affair with a famous supermodel/zoologist who's sworn him to secrecy regarding her identity. No one believes Frasier when he finally divulges her identity ... instead believing that the shrink's finally lost his marbles.

[exits]
Niles: 'Well, it's one thing to concoct a little white lie, but to come up with a supermodel?!'
Martin: 'Who dumped an NFL player for Frasier!'
[laughs]

SEASON 6 The Seal Who Came to Dinner

Niles hosts an exclusive dinner party at Maris's beach house (without her consent) in the hope of winning his dinner club's prestigious 'Golden Apron' award.
But Frasier and Niles panic when they discover a very pungent and very dead seal on the beach, just outside the house. In their attempts to disguise the smelly seal, all manner of misunderstandings ensue, leading to the brothers getting arrested on suspicion of murder.

After Niles suggests using Maris's beach house as the venue:
Martin: 'Isn't that breaking and entering?'
Niles: 'It's not a crime if it's catered!'

SEASON 7 Something Borrowed, Someone Blue

In the days leading up to Daphne and Donny's wedding, Daphne confesses her feelings for Niles to Frasier. Frasier convinces her to tell Niles, who then shocks everyone by eloping with girlfriend Mel.

But it's (finally) a happy ending, with Frasier eventually bringing the pair together. Daphne leaves her groom at the altar and runs away with Niles in a Winnebago.

An anxious Niles waits for Daphne to tell him her feelings:
Daphne: 'Oh ,for heaven's sake, Dr Crane.'
[They kiss passionately]
Niles: 'I think you can call me Niles now.'

Crane reaction

Kelsey Grammer tells Lawrie Masterson what's in store in the new series

It seems that there's true love at last for television's highbrow shrink Dr Frasier Crane. There will also be consequences for Daphne Moon (Jane Leeves) after her sudden decision to leave her groom at the altar and rush into the arms of Dr Crane's brother, Niles (David Hyde Pierce) ...

That's just part of what's to come in the eighth season of the hit American sitcom Frasier.
'Frasier this year is on a mission of soul-searching,' says Grammer. 'He didn't really want to be on one, but he ended up on one and that's the direction we're going.' While Grammer admits it might be several seasons yet before Frasier finds the woman of his dreams, he does promise 'a more focused relationship' in the new season.

In its eight-year run, Frasier has won an unprecedented five consecutive Emmy Awards as Most Outstanding Comedy and its US ratings were never higher than the final episode of season seven, when more than 30 million people watched Daphne maroon her groom, Donny, for Niles.

'I think they will be confronting certain problems with what they've done,' Grammer says of the pair. 'Those are things that will have consequences and we'll be dealing with those and getting them together in a way that is responsible and, hopefully, entertaining.'

Storm force

We all moan about the British weather – but it could be worse. Discovery's new documentary enters the eye of the ultimate storm. Interview: Nick Griffiths

IN TEXAS, THEY HAVE a Tornado Cannon. It shoots 4x2in planks of wood at buildings, at 100mph – not because Texans must have bigger projectiles than everyone else, but to simulate the effect of a tornado on a building. They aren't turning on a merely outsized wind machine, as we meteorologically naive Brits might have imagined. To research the necessary strength of storm shelters, they are launching small trees, the sort of debris that gets thrown about in these giants' sneezes.

Using state-of-the-art computer graphics, the Discovery Channel's Weather Extreme simulates the effects of a Category 4 hurricane on New York City, and of a Force 5 tornado on downtown Dallas. Think Shrek meets Twister.

Meredith Eder produced the documentary, though her first encounter with truly bad weather came much earlier. 'I was about two years old,' she recalls. 'It's one of my first memories.' That's how bad the weather gets when you grow up in the American Midwest, part of a region they call Tornado Alley.

She continues, 'I remember running to the basement with my sisters and being terrified. The typhoon took the roof off our house. When it was over, my mum said, "OK, let's go upstairs and see what's happened." I said I didn't want to, "because there's a dragon up there".'

That hurricane that hit Britain in 1989 – just a gentle breeze. During one day in May 1999, 66 tornadoes hit Oklahoma, 52 reaching the city. One of those was a dreaded Force 5 (F5), which stayed on the ground for 30 miles, destroying more than 10,000 homes and killing 42 people. It was the first ever $1bn tornado.

With Weather Extreme, Meredith Eder visited a town in the aftermath of an F4. 'It was like walking into a war zone. People couldn't give me directions because there were no street signs and no landmarks left. They'd say, "You see where the school used to be? Go three blocks past that." There was nothing. The place was levelled. It was astonishing.'

Weather Extreme combines special effects with real-life footage and expert testimony from meteorologists, storm chasers and disaster planning officials.

Consider Dallas, a city made of glass, should an F5 tornado hit. Each pane weighs up to 500 lbs. On one side of a building the windows would implode, and on the other side they would explode. The resulting debris would hit the next building, and so on. An F5 boasts winds travelling in excess of 261 mph, which can uproot entire houses.

In May 1999, 66 tornadoes hit Oklahoma destroying more than 10,000 homes and killing 42 people

NOW SHOWING

Weather Extreme

Sunday 21st, 9.00pm

Hurricanes are generally slower, though cover a far greater area. A Category 4 (C4), one below the strongest, travels at 131-155 mph, forcing an 18ft-high surge of water before it. If one hit Manhattan, the streets would be under water and people would be trapped in the subways, while glass and cars would tumble down the streets. On the plus side, the average skyscraper has been built to withstand winds of 150 mph.

However, the city's population is so dense, and with the bridges out because the winds would blow cars away, people are going to be trapped in situ. If that's you, Eder warns, 'the best place to be is in the stairwell of a modern building, built of concrete and without windows. Go four floors up so you're not affected by the flood.'

There's no pie in this sky. 'New York has been hit by hurricanes before, though not dead on,' says Eder. 'Experts think it's only a matter of time.'

At least she's safe in Los Angeles. Earthquakes aside. cg

My word! Toby Anstis has made the successful transition from teen pin-up to quiz show host

Former kids TV host Toby Anstis heads up a funky new gameshow based on everyone's favourite board game. Interview: Tina Ogle

FOR SOMEONE WHOSE MATES include Ed the Duck, Gordon the Gopher and Aardvark, Toby Anstis has a remarkably gruff voice. The former teenybopper heart-throb whose smooth good looks graced the covers of many a teen magazine has moved on from his furry friends, however. There will be no more stints in the 'broom cupboard' for the 31-year-old, who has plunged into the exciting world of gameshows.

Anstis, who got his break into television 10 years ago with a contract with Children's BBC, is to host TV Scrabble, a self-explanatory show on Challenge TV. Designed to attract contestants who are interested in words rather than serious boffins, the brand new series will occupy our screens twice a day for six weeks.

'It's a very pacy, exciting show with state-of-the-art 3-D graphics, lots of rounds and a big head-to-head at the end. I think people will get hooked. We're hoping it will be as compulsive as Blockbusters or Who Want's to be a Millionaire? A couple of extra celebrity shows also see Jo Brand, Toyah Wilcox, Rick Wakeman and a Big Breakfast presenter getting involved in the wordplay. This step into the shiny world of competitive presenting seemed like an obvious one to Anstis, who still thanks his lucky stars on a daily basis for his media career. A graduate in psychology and marketing, he had vaguely planned a career in business when a BBC TV producer spotted him at a London radio station.

'I was a trainee for the summer, helping out my mate Dave Pearce,' he explains. 'This guy just came into the studio and asked me if I'd thought about working in telly. The answer was "no" because I thought those things only happened in dreams.'

After an audition which he thought was 'dodgy', he got the call three hours later that he was in. Little ones loved him, lapping him up in The Ozone, Live and Kicking, Electric Circus and Children in Need. Being told he was a heart-throb and encouraged to become a cover boy for the likes of Sugar and Big magazines was somewhat of a strange experience, however. 'I'd go and be styled here, there and everywhere and find myself on the front of a mag in the newsagents, then I'd have to go on TV and introduce Pingu. It was weird.'

NEW SERIES

TV Scrabble
Challenge TV, weekdays, 6.10pm and 10.00pm

It must have given him some confidence though, as when he was later asked to pose naked for gay magazine Attitude, he went for it. 'It's sometimes more flattering to be complimented by a gay person than a girl, isn't it? I thought, "You only live once" and I did these poses kick boxing. It was very tasteful.'

The adopted son of a solicitor and a housewife from Berkshire, Anstis also has a twin sister. They were both taken to ballet lessons from the age of three and children's TV's loss could have been ballet's gain had he kept it up. He became a junior associate at the Royal Ballet School at the age of 10 and was tipped for great things. 'But I talked it over with my mum and dad and decided I didn't want my life to be all about dancing, so I left when I was 13.'

A regular weekend presenter on London's Heart FM and a veteran of six years of panto, Anstis's appetite for his work remains undimmed.

'I never feel insecure, I never have,' he says. 'Something always comes along. If it all ended tomorrow I'd be disappointed, but I've achieved far more than I ever thought I would. I'd like to do more radio, more TV. I'd carry on regardless, really.' cg drama down under

Top to bottom: Crash Palace stars Stephanie Waring, Warren Derosa and Dieter Brummer; Stephanie as Hollyoaks' Cindy and Warren (John) with Tory Mussett (Inez)

A bright young cast of Brits and Aussies combine in the sexy new drama series Crash Palace. Jenny Eden meets some familiar faces who are making an impact down under

Take some of the most gorgeous actors from around the globe, add a gritty script that pulls no punches and put them in a backpackers' hostel in Australia. The result is one very sexy drama.

Crash Palace is set in a Sydney hostel that becomes a magnet for gorgeous young travellers. With the youngsters thrown together far away from home, there are drugs, drink and sexual shenanigans.

And the makers proudly boast they'll tell it like it is – so the cameras don't just stop at the bedroom door.

Adding the sex appeal for the Brits are former Hollyoaks pin-ups Stephanie Waring (she played Cindy Cunningham) and Warren Derosa (Rob Hawthorne). While ex-Home and Away heart-throb Dieter Brummer is leading a cast of the most glamorous stars Australia has to offer.

Waring admits she was so thrilled when she got the call that her emotions got the better of her. She says: 'It's such a great job living and working on the other side of the world for three months that I burst into tears.'

But Hollyoaks fans who were used to her role as frumpy single mum Cindy could be in for a shock when they see Stephanie as party girl Tina. And Waring, 23, says the radical change of image was deliberate.

'Cindy was quite a dowdy character so I was never seen as glamorous. I got really comfortable on Hollyoaks so I think I just let myself go,' she reflects. 'In the four years I was on the show I put on two stone in weight so I got quite big. When I decided to leave Hollyoaks I wanted to change my image completely.

'I started going to the gym and eating healthily so I lost all the weight and I dyed my hair blonde and had it highlighted. A lot of people didn't recognise me after I left. Now people say they can't believe it's me.'

And Waring admits rather than the raunchy plot lines putting her off the role, she is pleased to be asked to play the show's sex bomb.

'It's great to play someone sexy now,' she enthuses. 'My new image has given me more confidence than I've ever had before and Tina's great fun to play because she's a real party girl and completely unlike me.

'I like to go out and have a good time, but I try not to drink – it makes me fall asleep and I just end up going home early.'

The series also means a new chance for British fans to catch up with Dieter Brummer.

He won millions of hearts around the world, along with a Logie Award and the title of Hottest Man on the Planet in one magazine poll, playing nice guy Shane in Home and Away.

But Brummer, 25, says he jumped at the chance of his role as diving instructor Dave because of his own passion for scuba diving.

'I started diving four years ago and loved it so much I got all my mates involved,' he says. 'Now I go whenever I can and I'm trying to get my licence to become an instructor.'

But despite his huge success in Home and Away, Brummer admits he's always had a very laid-back attitude to his career.

'I never had ambitions to be famous. I started Home and Away when I was 15 and to be put in the midst of all this fame and fortune at that age is pretty bonkers,' he says.

'Most of my mates were still at school and trying to find their own lives and I'd got this whole lot of cash under my belt and I was doing all these things they couldn't.

'But deciding to leave wasn't hard. I was a young actor and I couldn't just hang around forever for the sake of picking up a weekly cheque.

'I wanted to be killed off so I knew I'd never have to face the situation of them saying "please come back" and being tempted.' Since Home and Away, he admits finding work has been tough and he's even thought about giving up acting. But he still has no regrets about leaving.

'Occasionally big envelopes still arrive with fan mail that's been sent to Home and Away for me,' Brummer says.

'But it's sometimes nice to be one of the thousands of unemployed actors rather than someone with a big profile.'

Since leaving behind Summer Bay, Dieter has worked on Australian TV, but Crash Palace is the first chance for British fans to see him again.

'When I left Home and Away I had a pantomime lined up in Britain, but they wouldn't give me a visa so I couldn't do it,' he explains.

'At the end of the first show I had to get on stage and apologise to the audience that I couldn't be in it.'

Even though Crash Palace is set to catapult Brummer back into the limelight he has shunned since Home and Away, he says this time he's ready for it.

'Nothing could be like the intensity and madness of Home and Away,' he admits.

'Crash Palace is a great idea and has been lots of fun. I've really enjoyed working with actors from all over the world. And after Home and Away it's great to be tackling some really adult storylines.

'To be honest it's reminded me how much I enjoy acting.'

Key players

Ever dreamed of moving to sunnier climes? Well, that's just what one couple did in UK Style's A House in Florida. Interview: Pauline McLeod

Place in the sun: Carolyn and Rob Lyn swapped their life in the UK for the Florida Keys

SITTING ON THE DOCK of the bay with Rob and Carolyn Lyn, their lobster boat bobbing in the water below us as the pelicans make the last dive of the day and the sun splashes the Gulf of Mexico with a luminous blush, I can't help but think that the old Otis Redding classic was written for moments like this. Because you could happily sit here, hour after hour, wasting time. But then, we are on what's commonly known as Keys Time which, loosely translated, means: 'The day happens.'

Not that the day just drifts on by for Carolyn, formerly a management company executive in Hertfordshire, who's swapped a highly charged, stressful lifestyle, designer suits and acrylic nails for T-shirts, shorts and mosquito repellent. And with it, a totally different sort of stress – for a start, she now works a 14-hour day. Seven days a week.

She and Rob, who ran his desktop publishing business from their home in Bishop's Stortford, have done what many of us dream about when we're sitting on that beach, but never actually do. They've sold up, shipped out and started a completely different way of life in a different country on a different continent.

Alan Ravenscroft's riveting 26-part series, A House in Florida follows the couple, and their 10-year-old daughter Joanna, through their first backbreaking months renovating the Bay View Inn on Conch Key, and details how they have already turned it from being unfriendly, run-down and downright missable, into a welcome addition to the Keys.

But at such a cost! Well, $1.2m for starters, which was what it cost to buy the 10-bedroom motel, gas pump, landing dock and convenience store – the only shop for eight miles. And that's before the 'incidentals', which include shipping costs, legal fees, medical insurance and a colossal amount of renovation to the property.

The price, however, could have been higher because it almost cost the Lyns their marriage.

The stress of dealing with enormously complex American immigration laws; finding a suitable business; the legal process of buying the property once they'd found it (very different to the UK); and the constant problems they faced of being 'aliens' with no 'history' – particularly no financial history – all took its toll.

On the day they 'closed' on the deal to buy the Bay View Inn, Carolyn collapsed, was in hospital for five days and they've both been close to bringing 'closure' on their marriage since they arrived in the US last November.

That said, they've absolutely no regrets about chucking in their fancy but routine lifestyle in the UK, where Rob reckons '40 minutes of every hour went to the tax man', and they are thrilled they've made this leap over the pond to start a new life in the New World.

'But the land of the free? I don't think so!' admits the laid-back Rob, five years younger than Carolyn, 49.

'There are all sorts of rules and regulations. You hit red tape at every level. If you don't pay your electricity bill by a certain date you go "delinquent" – whatever that means.

'You have to have a social security number before you can do anything, but your social security number also shows that you're a foreign national so it's difficult to get credit. I have a $1.2m motel and a $10,000-a-month mortgage, but I couldn't get a mobile phone. Work that one out!'

After years at the sharp end of the business world in England, the last thing Carolyn expected to be doing was working in a shop (she works in the convenience store attached to the Lyns' hotel).

'To come to America to live, you have to be self-sufficient and prove you are self-sufficient. We were lucky, in that we had an excellent immigration lawyer to take us through the whole process. Everything fell into place – until we got here. The deal on the original property we were buying fell through.'

As Ravenscroft follows the Lyns, and the fortunes of other Brits living in Florida, here's hoping this gutsy couple, working their butts off (as the Yanks would say), can enjoy Happy Hour occasionally.

Mind you, there is that spectacular location. It's probably Happy Hour right this minute! cg

A COOL PILLION

Vicki Butler-Henderson risks life and limb – and has the time of her life – for her new series

FILMING THE FEAST OF features for UK Horizon's new bike show, Top Bikes, has been a blast. And none more so than when we went to a weekend's celebration of all things on two wheels, at Northamptonshire's newest racing circuit, Rockingham. The two-day event, the Blast, may not have attracted as big a crowd as expected, but I made the most of the attractions on offer.

Rockingham Motor Speedway, to give it its proper name, looks like no other racing circuit in the UK. Massive stands surround much of the 1.5-mile oval track, and inside that is a more traditional circuit which, thanks to a nifty bit of design, has a multitude of configurations. And while plenty of people thrashed their road bike round its twists and turns over the two days, I did something very silly on the outer oval circuit. I sat on the back of a motorcycle at 160mph. Call me mad, insane or just plain stupid, and I will agree with you. But it was an experience I'll never forget.

My life was in the capable hands of Mark Forsyth, motorcycle journalist and ex-bike racer, who formed part of the team responsible for building the unique Ducati beneath us. Last year, the super sexy set of wheels took race ace John Reynolds to victory at the World Superbike meeting at Brands Hatch. Today, it looks a bit different, as it now sports a rear seat (small), a pair of grab handles (large), and its sole purpose in life is to entertain its pillion passenger. And with a top whack of 200mph, a deep growl for a voice and 160bhp, this Ducati 996R delivers.

With my knees bent almost double beneath me, my arms stretched around the pilot and my hands clamped tight on the petrol tank-mounted grab handles, we left the pits and accelerated onto the circuit. I've been on the back of a pillion-friendly racing bike before, but it was around a circuit that was full of slow, tightening bends which gave me a chance to catch my breath.

But at Rockingham, there are just two corners, and these are slightly banked, incredibly fast and edged by a concrete wall. No gravel traps, no second chances. As we accelerated through the gears, the wind noise and pressure took me by surprise, and I seriously thought the chances of my gloved hands losing grip on the handles were high. Mark didn't seem to notice. We swept through the two bends at a nerve-tingling angle, and then I felt the bike wiggle beneath me as Mark cranked the throttle open on the exits. Then he rode so close to that concrete wall that I could have touched it. At 160mph. I felt so alive.

And if that wasn't enough to make me feel a pillion in a million, I participated in another of the Blast's attractions – stunt bikes. Lying flat out along the top of a Suzuki, and with stunt-nut Kevin Carmichael in control above me, we whizzed along on the back tyre to entertain the spectators. Pah, all in a day's work. cg

COUNTDOWN FOR THE CROWS

After hearing several rumours about my favourite band, Counting Crows, splitting up, the prospect of maybe never seeing them live leaves me feeling ever so slightly sad. Their music videos are not available for purchase in the United Kingdom but I do know that they have performed live for VH1 Storytellers and MTV. Could you tell me if either VH1 or MTV plans to show these Counting Crows performances in the near future?
Carly Cutmore, e-mail

Looks promising, Carly. VHI tells us there is a Storytellers: Counting Crows and to keep your eyes peeled over the next few months.

MADE OF STERNER STUFF

About a year ago, The Howard Stern Show was running on Bravo. I thought this was the most outrageously funny show I had ever seen. Then Bravo just stopped showing it. I have waited patiently for the show to come back on but it never has. Does Bravo have any plans to run The Howard Stern Show again? This was undoubtedly the best programme I have seen in years.
Debbie McGill, e-mail

A Bravo spokesperson replies: 'This show is now out of licence on Bravo and we currently have no plans to bring it back. If you're looking for another outrageously funny programme for the autumn, then check out Travel Sick on Bravo, starting on Monday 22nd.'

GRAB A PIZZA THE ACTION

I am a big fan of the teen sitcom Two Guys, a Girl and a Pizza Place on Trouble. I have heard rumours of it being cancelled in America. Could you please tell me whether this is true or not? If it is, does that mean that Trouble will stop showing the show? I would also like to know why Trouble never shows the end of the fourth series? I have seen episode guides on the internet, and according to them, there are at least three more episodes in the series. It would be a shame if the show has been cancelled, as it is one of the funniest shows I have seen in a long time! The least Trouble could do is let us see the last three episodes. Please?
Jenny, e-mail

A Trouble spokesperson replies: 'The show has been cancelled in the States – Trouble has acquired all four series that were made. Look out for the Two Guys and a Girl special weekend coming up in November, as there'll be previously unseen episodes within that – it's your chance to see the final three!'

BRITISH AIRWAYS

Among my favourite TV channels is Travel Channel, and I have been enjoying the series Britain from the Air. It is a very interesting programme and the scenes are very picturesque, but I also enjoyed the similar series An Aerial Tour of Britain.

I know it has been shown a few times but there are still some episodes that I missed. Is this series likely to be shown again?
Mike Mortimer, e-mail

Travel Channel informs us that An Aerial Tour of Britain is being repeated from Sunday 25 November, to be shown on Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

'I am a big fan of the teen sitcom Two Guys, a Girl and a Pizza Place on Trouble. I have heard rumours of it being cancelled in America'

PACKED TO THE BRIMSTONE

A few years ago, Sky One began showing a programme called Brimstone. It was full of excitement and action. This was a brilliant show, which me and my dad enjoyed. It then suddenly stopped after only about 15 episodes. Could you tell me whether there are any plans to show it again?
Gary Borrows, e-mail

Sky One tells us that Brimstone will indeed be shown again shortly on the channel, but there were only 15 episodes ever made, so unfortunately there will be no new episodes.

MISSING OUT ON M*A*S*H?

What is the point of re-running the *M*A*S*H* series in the early hours of the morning when your average viewer is asleep? A whole new generation of prospective fans are missing out.
Marilyn, e-mail

A Sky One spokesperson replies: 'As a classic show with a solid fan base, it was felt that this time slot would work for *M*A*S*H*. Sky One are, therefore, sorry to hear that you are unhappy with the scheduling of this show, but we have also heard from a number of viewers who have indeed enjoyed the series in the slot

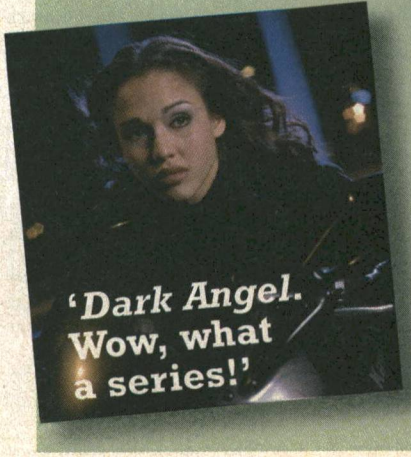
LETTER OF THE MONTH

Compelling viewing

Dark Angel. Wow, what a series! Finally, a brilliantly written show that is both imaginative, yet realistic. Not only are the characters well written and three-dimensional, but the actors who play them are actually good. Dark Angel is an action-packed, sci-fi roller coaster, but it also has an element of romance and true friendship.

I think that Dark Angel sends an important message to its viewers. It helps us to identify, in our own lives, how to help people and do what is right. It teaches us to recognise what truly matters in our lives, and how important it is to hold on to these things.

Dark Angel is one of the most compelling television programmes on our screens today. I would like to thank Sky One for providing English viewers with the opportunity to watch such an outstanding programme. I wait in anticipation for the next season!
Hannah Skehill, e-mail



Congratulations, Hannah! You have won £50 for writing this month's prize letter. Dark Angel (whose star Jessica Alba is pictured, left) is due to return with a new series on Sky One early next year.

in which it currently plays. We appreciate feedback from viewers and we do hope that you continue to watch (even if it does mean setting your video recorder!).'

MY FAIR LADY

Recently there was an Audrey Hepburn weekend on LivingTV [25 and 26 August]. They showed The Audrey Hepburn Story, and when I watched part one I was hooked because the movie was excellent. Unfortunately I missed part two of the movie and I would like to know when it might be shown again.
Tatyana Storozhenko, e-mail

LivingTV tells us that the two-part story will be shown again on Saturday 20th and Sunday 21st at 4.30pm.

STAR TREK ATTRACTION

Could you tell me when Sky One intends to show the new Enterprise series from the makers of Star Trek?
Lesmoor Kelly, e-mail

A Sky One spokesperson replies: 'Sky One is both excited and proud to be able to bring the new Star Trek series, Enterprise, to viewers from early next year.' See In Production on page 4 for more on Enterprise.

THE TECHNOFILES

I used to enjoy Technofile on Sky News, shown on Saturday mornings – it was temporarily suspended for the general election but has not been shown since.

It appeared to be a very popular programme. It was well presented and the only TV programme on any channel about computers and the latest consumer technology. Are there plans for its return?
Mike Howard, e-mail

A Sky News spokesperson replies: 'There are no plans to show any further episodes of Technofile. Having listened closely to its viewers, Sky News has refocused its resources to re-affirm its commitment to continuous and breaking news – first. The head of Sky News, Nick Pollard, said the strategy would ensure that Sky News maintained its status as the UK's leading 24-hour news channel in terms of quality of news output, speed of response to stories and reputation with viewers.'

THE WONDER OF THE WONDER YEARS

Does Disney Channel have any plans to air The Wonder Years again? Last time it was aired they missed out a large amount of episodes and it would be nice to know whether they will show them all.
Mr W Skelly, e-mail

A Disney Channel spokesperson replies: 'There were actually three episodes of The Wonder Years that we didn't air. As a children's broadcaster, Disney Channel has a strict compliancy policy and we only show material that is suitable for all our target audience. As these episodes featured subjects that were outside our boundaries, we took the decision not to show them. There are no plans at present to rerun the series. However, we have lots of exciting new programmes coming out this autumn on the channel so don't miss out on the new line-up.'

NASCAR ALARM

Can anyone tell us NASCAR fans what British Eurosport are playing at? We tune in and get tennis or cycling. Little flags come up telling us that, 'NASCAR follows' but it doesn't. Having missed the promised Sunday transmission, we tune into a scheduled repeat and what do we get? Cycling or tennis!

We pay for this coverage and I think we deserve an explanation.
John Evans, e-mail

British Eurosport's public relations manager, Colin Banks, replies: 'Unfortunately, Sunday 19 August was not a good night for NASCAR fans. NASCAR was scheduled for 9:30pm following the live CART race from the USA and highlights of the Canadian Open tennis final. However, heavy rain at both events completely disrupted the schedule. The CART race finished almost an hour late, and then instead of going to highlights of the tennis final, we were forced to go live to the Canadian Open as rain had postponed the match from earlier. Unfortunately, it was a long three-set match that did not finish until 11:30pm. We then announced that NASCAR would be postponed until around 1.00am. However, many viewers called on Monday to say they had missed the broadcast so we added another showing on the Tuesday evening at midnight, which we promoted on-screen. We are sorry if you missed both broadcasts, and hope that you understand that with live sports sometimes schedules can be completely changed. We hope you continue to enjoy NASCAR on British Eurosport.'

KIDS' INFORMATION PAGE

As a former member of Eternal, Kelle Bryan has certainly played the pop star in her time. So who better to front Nickelodeon's interactive music show, n list?

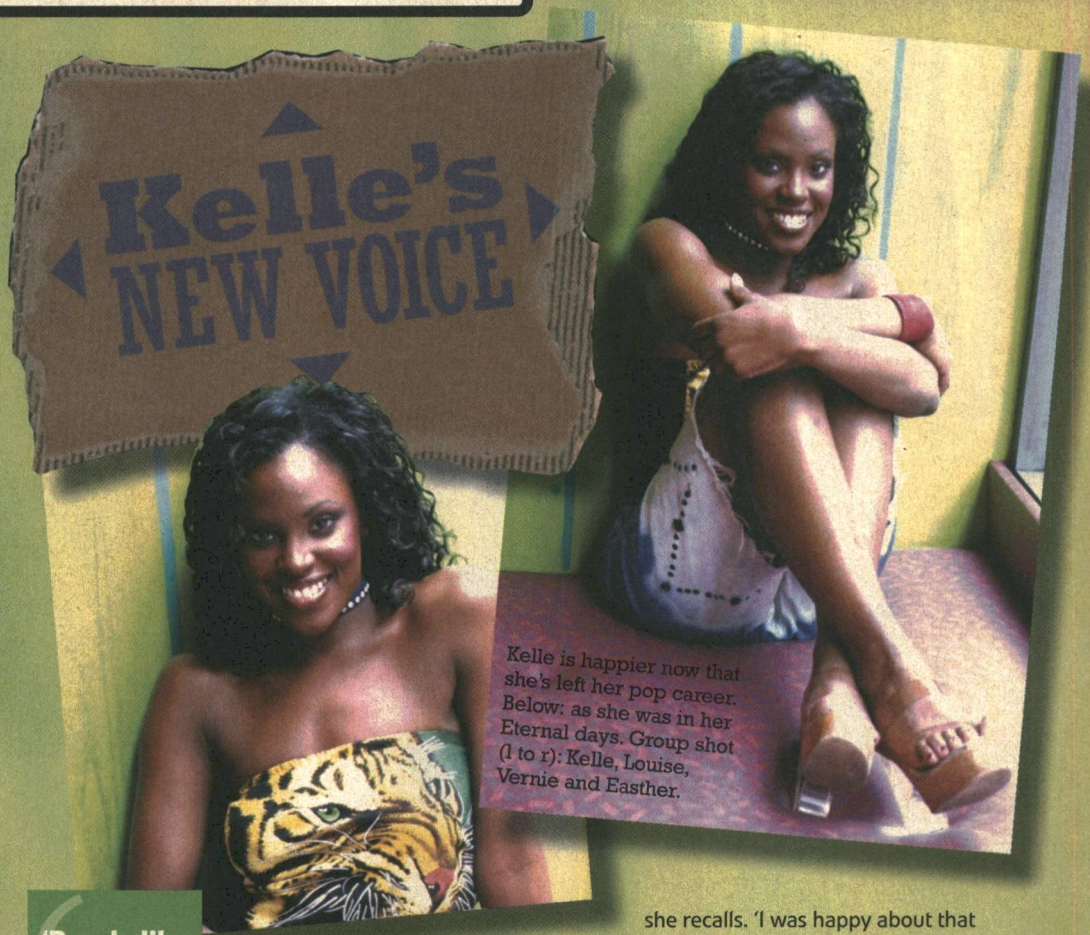
For those unfamiliar with Kelle's past incarnation, Eternal was one of the biggest soul sensations of the 1990s, best known for the number one hit I Wanna Be the Only One. So, what Kelle doesn't know about music you can write on the back of a postage stamp, but that still didn't stop her getting nervous about presenting n list, which begins a second series this month.

'The first couple of shows I thought, "God, I don't know if I can do this", just because it was so different from singing and I felt uncomfortable. But by the end of the first series it was cool and I thought, "Yeah, I can do this".'

As you might expect, Kelle's musical pedigree has proved invaluable. '[Bands] like being interviewed by me because of my background. It's like they have an inbred respect for me ... and I know what it's like to be in their shoes, so I know what questions I would like to be asked.'

If you haven't seen n list then you may not realise that it's no ordinary music show. Priding itself on giving kids what they want to watch, each week viewers log on to www.nlist.co.uk and select their favourite music video from 20 options. The five most popular videos are then played on the next show, where Kelle also chats to an established act as well as an up-and-coming one.

Kelle is a huge fan of the show. The 26-year-old particularly likes the Debate Mate segment, where questions like 'Are Hear'Say has-beens?' are chewed over and the answers spat out. Kelle revels in interviewing old music pals, too, such as Brian Harvey and Stephen Gately. But best of all, she loves answering all the e-mails she gets from n list viewers. 'I feel like I've got direct communication with viewers, which as a pop star I hardly ever got,' she says.



Kelle is happier now that she's left her pop career. Below: as she was in her Eternal days. Group shot (l to r): Kelle, Louise, Vernie and Easther.

'Bands like being interviewed by me because of my background. It's like they have an inbred respect for me'

Co-presenter Dave Berry is also 'an absolute star' says Kelle, and given her bitter split with Eternal's Bennett sisters, Easther and Vernie, who she still doesn't speak to (she's best friends with fourth member Louise though), Kelle knows only too well the value of good working relationships.

Bust-up aside, Kelle is positive about her Eternal days: 'We met the Pope and we did the first emancipation concert in South Africa after Nelson Mandela was freed.' And how could she begrudge Eternal when it had allowed her to achieve her ultimate ambition – to perform on stage?

After Eternal, Kelle wanted music to take a back seat, but she didn't have the confidence to try anything new, so she opted for a solo singing career. 'My single (Higher than Heaven) went higher in the charts than the girls' single did,' she recalls. 'I was happy about that because they wanted to hold on to the name Eternal, and I was like, fine. No problem, have it. And the fact that they had the name they had fought so hard for and I was on my own, and my chart position was higher, gave me the satisfaction that I was fine.' Quite by accident, Kelle's solo success gave her the confidence to try something new.

'It's a completely different approach to what I've been used to with singing,' she says of her presenting career. 'Being a pop star it's like, "you will do this, you will get up by this time, you will wear that". It's very structured. This is really free and I'm in control. And the whole relationship with my agent is based on trust and us respecting each other.'

Though Kelle keeps a hand in music, writing songs for her record label Red Hot Entertainment, she doesn't want it to dominate her life. 'I'd like to have a couple of films under my belt. I'd like my record label to have a couple of successful artists. I'd like to be married, I'd like to have a couple of children.

'I'm pretty much a happy person now, so anything else is a bonus.'

Ginger tells all

Kip gets the low-down on Ginger Foutley, the new girl on the Nickelodeon block

Do you have any brothers or sisters?
I have a nine-year-old brother called Carl. He's the only man in our household and he loves to gross-out grown-ups! His partner in crime is Hoodsey Bishop.

Do you get on well with your parents?
My mum is great. She's a nurse at the Sheltered Shrubs Hospital and works really hard, but she always comes to our parents' evenings! She doesn't have time to mince her words, so she tends to say stuff bluntly.

Do you have any pets?
No, my brother is enough, thanks.

Any hobbies?
Hair and make-up, that's all really.

How are you getting on at your school?
Lucky Junior High is weird. There's the cool crowd and the not-so-cool crowd. I come somewhere in between. I don't want to lose touch with my old friends (the un-cool crowd) and yet Courtney, the ultimate in coolness, wants me to hang with her.

Are there any cute boys there?
Sure, but I'm not saying which one is special.

Who are your best friends?
My best friend is Dodie. She knows all the gossip, and the vitals of every student – even the exact shade of lipstick each girl wears. Macie's also great, but she worries too much, like she got nervous when we talked about the elimination of Jell-O from the school cafeteria.

What do you want to be when you grow up?
I want to be COOL! cg

As Told By Ginger*, Mondays to Thursdays, 7.30am and 4.00pm; Fridays, 7.30am

School's out

You lucky lot – not only have you got a week off school this month, you'll also be spoilt for choice as far as cool TV goes. Just for half-term there's this little lot ...

- It's easy peasy Japanesy with Cartoon Network, as DJ Extraordinaire Johnny Bravo goes to the Far East in Toon FM in Tokyo. And continuing the theme, there'll be a brand new series of Tenchi in Tokyo. There will also be new episodes of Ed, Ed and Eddy and The Powerpuff Girls.
- Studio Disney will be live from 9.00am to 7.00pm with guests,competitions, back-to-back episodes of your favourite shows and a film at 1.00pm.
- Trouble will be doing its best to give you the giggles with comedies every half-hour in the afternoon.
- And if you still can't find anything to watch, vote for your favourite shows on Nickelodeon's Watch Your Own Week. cg

Win

As Tenchi Muyo returns, we've got 10 figures up for grabs. For your chance to win, tell us what is the raw fish food eaten in Tokyo?

Answers on a postcard with your name and address to: Cable Guide/Tenchi Muyo competition, PO BOX 2176, London W1A 5TW. The first 10 correct entries drawn at random will win. Closing date is 31 October 2001. Full Cable Guide rules on page 24.

Ahhh HALLOWEEN!

It's that time of year when you may find yourself bobbing for apples, donning your mum's best sheet, cutting out faces in pumpkins and most probably asking 'trick or treat?' Well, if you're home alone on 31 October, you're guaranteed a treat with a terrifying TV feast.

On Cartoon Network there'll be a Halloween Marathon, with the premiere of Scooby and the Witch's Ghost, as well as Scooby Doo on Zombie Island and more spooky Scooby episodes.

Disney Channel will be hosting a Halloween Spooks and Spells Day, featuring Halloween episodes of such favourite shows as Recess, 100 Deeds of Eddie McDowd, Smart Guy and Boy Meets World. At 7.00pm there's the UK premiere of Halloweentown 2: Kalabar's Revenge, and following that there's two hours of Home Improvement Halloween specials.

And finally, Nickelodeon will be celebrating Halloween with Select-a-Scare, where you get to vote for the scariest episodes of Are You Afraid of the Dark?. The top six selections will be played in reverse order from 7.00pm.

So, if you laugh in the face of all things scary, then dim the lights, sink into the sofa and prepare to be chilled to the bone. Happy Halloween! cg 1991 Mercedes 400 SE. Very low mileage, excellent condition. Bankruptcy. Auction price £1,750.

Minolta Photocopier. 1 year old. Perfect working order. Liquidation Sale. Auction price £22.

5 bedrooms. Rural Norfolk. Repossession. Auction price £38,000.

Every month GOVERNMENT AUCTION NEWS will guide you to thousands of bargains like these...

An industrial chip fryer in pristine condition £15 (worth £2,100)...a five year old BMW 525i low mileage in fair condition £1,045 (worth £5,025)... a brand new top-of-the-range Compaq laptop 64mb computer £85 (£900)... a nearly new 125 piece socket and spanner set £15 (£140)... a box containing over 200 pieces of solid silver, plate silver and stainless steel cutlery £38 (cleaned and sorted worth £1,400)...

The above examples all gathered by our reporters and readers during 2000.

Every month readers of Government Auction News receive details of over 1,000 hard-to-find auctions. Many of these are 'no reserve' auctions where the goods must be sold regardless of how low the winning bid. If you want to learn where to find thousands of bargains every bit as good as these examples then send for a RISK-FREE TRIAL ISSUE of Government Auction News today, and save £20.

Why auction prices are so low.

People sell at auction when they are in a hurry. Perhaps they don't want to store the goods any more, or maybe they need the money urgently, or possibly they haven't the facilities to deal with prospective buyers. Whatever the reason, the result is that auction prices represent some unbelievable bargains.

The BIG secret.

Auctions of the type covered by Government Auction News don't get publicised because a) the auctioneers don't make enough profit to make it worth their while and b) most bidders are 'trade' and they don't want extra competition. The one proven way to discover where these auctions are is to read Government Auction News.

Types of auction covered.

Police lost property - Ministry of Defence - Official Liquidator & Receiver - Bankrupt stock - General & Trade - HM Customs & Excise - Antique & Collectibles - Wine - Jewellery - Motor - Property - Executor sales of deceased estates - and more besides. We also cover internet auctions.

Send for a RISK-FREE TRIAL ISSUE

We'll be pleased to send you a trial issue of Government Auction News which is packed not just with auction listings but also features, news, tips, articles, advice and investigative reports. Take up our offer and you'll save £20 in your first year. You will be covered by our 30 day no-quibble money-back guarantee.

Do not confuse us with other titles - there is only one Government Auction News as featured by The Sunday Times, The Independent, BBC Radio, and many more.

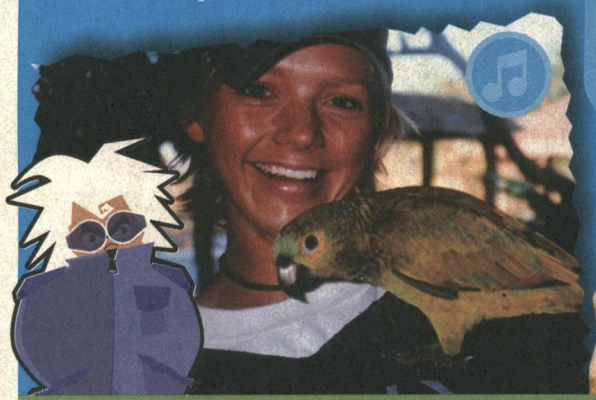
S Club 7 may be one of the most successful pop groups in the world, but the super septet still have a conscience, and they really care about the planet's endangered species.

So, with the help of the WWF, the World Wildlife Fund for Nature, Paul, Jo, Bradley, Tina, Hannah, Rachel and Jon each adopted an endangered animal. But that wasn't enough for S Club 7, so they made a fascinating series of travelogues, following each member of the band as he or she journeyed to meet their chosen animal in its home environment.

For once, singing and dancing took a back seat as the band travelled to exciting and exotic destinations. So, which animals did the band adopt?



Jon
Jon travels all the way to Malaysia with plans to monkey around with his favourite animal, the orang-utan. This animal, one of our closest living relatives, may not even exist in 10 years time.

Jo
Journeying to Thailand, Jo finds her animal – the Asian elephant. Elephants have always been her favourite animals, but sadly there are now less than 50,000 of them remaining.

Tina
Tina visits some adorable pandas in China. She's always had a soft spot for these cuddly bears, but, believe it or not, there are only 1000 left in the world today.

Bradley
Searching deepest Brazil, Bradley ruffles the feathers of the world's largest parrot – the Hyacinth macaw. With only 3000 left in the world, they're very rare.

Rachel
Rachel goes to Russia to find the endangered Siberian tiger. This truly beautiful animal, with its striking and powerful looks, has always fascinated her.

Paul
Heading off to stunning Kenya, Paul goes in search of the black rhino, which he chose to support because despite there being few left in the wild, the illegal horn trade still persists.

Hannah
Having always loved the water, Hannah opted for a marine animal, the monk seal. She went to Turkey to spot one – no mean feat considering there are about 500 of them left on the planet.

You can help!

If you want to be like S Club 7 and get involved with WWF then you can write to WWF at Panda House, Weyside Park, Godalming, Surrey GU7 1XR or telephone 0845 766 8860. You can also find out more information by visiting the WWF website at www.wwf-uk.org. cg

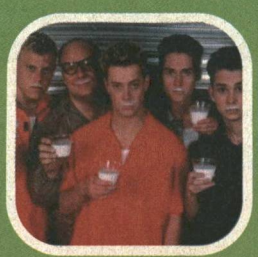
2GETHER 4U

Ever wondered what put the life in Westlife? Well, check out Boyband – The Movie, a laugh-out-loud spoof of the boyband scene and a real poke in the ribs at pop music



Boyband – The Movie premieres on Trouble this month. Such was its popularity that it spawned its own series, 2gether, which follows the formation and progress of a boyband.

The funny thing is that the film and the spin-off series did such a good job of ripping off boybands that it rocketed the pretend band to genuine pop success. 2gether have now sold one million albums, they've a fan base that rivals the bands they're imitating, and they even have their own action figure dolls.

'It was always our intention to blur the line,' says actor Evan Farmer, who all too easily fills the role of 2gether's heartthrob.

'We have two camps of fans – those who enjoy us for the pop music and those who enjoy the parody' says Alex Solowitz, who plays bad-boy Mickey Parke. 'Going out and doing a concert in front of 60,000 people was the highlight. Everyone's singing your songs and going nuts, you can't beat that.' Is he beginning to believe his own hype? cg

Boyband – The Movie*, Trouble, Sunday 28th, 9.00pm

Win

Whether you enjoy the subtle jokes or just want to revel in a little behind-the-scenes boyband fun, chances are Boyband – The Movie will swiftly turn you into a loyal 2gether devotee. So, in preparation, we've got 20 copies of the movie plus a Trouble goodie bag to give away. Just tell us how many band members are in 2gether.

Answers on a postcard with your name and address to: Cable Guide/2gether competition, PO BOX 2176, London W1A 5TW. The first 20 correct entries drawn at random will win. Closing date is 31 October 2001. Full Cable Guide rules on page 24.

BILLY ELLIOT (15)

JAMIE BELL, JULIE WALTERS, GARY LEWIS
106 MINS PREMIERE

What could be more compelling than a gritty Northern family drama? How about a gritty Northern family drama with dance numbers! It's 1984 and Billy is the child in a family of striking coal miners. When he strays from the boxing session he hates into a ballet class taught by the indomitable Walters, there's nothing stopping the lad with potential from leaping to the top – unless it's his horrified dad, who's having none of that sissy stuff. The simplicity of this triumph-over-adversity story belies its warmth, humour and genuine emotion, played out to an infectious medley of Eighties hits. The dancing provides moments of magic, particularly a tour de force number in which Billy vents his frustration with athletic grace through the streets like a pubescent Gene Kelly. All the performances are heartfelt – Lewis is magnificent as Billy's tragic dad and Walters is at her best in years – but the film's irresistible asset is the talented young Jamie Bell, thrillingly beating off the likes of Tom Hanks and Russell Crowe for BAFTA's Best Actor award.

DRIVE ME CRAZY 12
MELISSA JOAN HART, ADRIAN GRENIER
88 MINS
Melissa Joan Hart stars in this romantic comedy as a perky-but-serious high school princess whose prom date schemes backfire when she's stuck with the grungy rebel boy next door (cute Adrian Grenier). Her partner, of course, turns out better than she thought when she sets about giving him a fashion makeover.

GONE IN 60 SECONDS 15
NICOLAS CAGE, ANGELINA JOLIE, GIOVANNI RIBISI, VINNIE JONES
114 MINS
To save his feckless brother from a criminal client's death sentence, retired car thief Nicolas Cage is forced to recruit a gang with automotive expertise and hit the streets to steal 50 luxury cars in just one night.

HOLLOW MAN 18
KEVIN BACON, ELISABETH SHUE
108 MINS
The mad scientist is a favourite in sci-fi horror, and they don't come much madder than the genius who's made himself irreversibly invisible. Director Paul Verhoeven takes the classic fantasy concept and spins a mean, modern variation on it.

KEEPING THE FAITH 12
BEN STILLER, EDWARD NORTON, JENNA ELFMAN
124 MINS PREMIERE
Intense character actor Norton (Fight Club) makes a surprisingly light-hearted directing debut with this delightful romantic comedy about a young rabbi, his best friend – a Catholic priest – and their one-time tomboy chum who's come back to town a lovely woman. Equally funny are Rabbi Stiller's matchmaking congregation, trying to find him a nice girl, and Father Norton's, alarmed to think he might have found one.

LIBERTY HEIGHTS 15
ADRIEN BRODY, JOE MANTEGNA
122 MINS PREMIERE
Writer-Director Barry Levinson returns to semi-autobiographical hometown (Baltimore) nostalgia – as in his films Diner, Tin Men and Avalon – for a charming coming-of-age-in-the-Fifties drama of sex, racism, rock 'n' roll and family. Mantegna and Cheers' Bebe Neuwirth are wonderful as the parents, but the young newcomers are especially engaging.

THE LITTLE VAMPIRE U
JONATHAN LIPNICKI, RICHARD E GRANT, JIM CARTER
91 MINS PREMIERE
Cute Lipnicki (from Jerry Maguire) is a lonely little visitor to Scotland who befriends a similarly forlorn boy hanging around the manor, unperturbed by his new mate's suspiciously long teeth and penchant for black clothes. Comically spooky family fun, with vampire cows and Richard E Grant camping it up a hoot as Vampire Dad among the highlights.

MY DOG SKIP U
LUKE WILSON, FRANKIE MUNIZ, DIANE LANE, KEVIN BACON 92 MINS
Muniz and canine star Moose (who plays incorrigible Eddie on Frasier) team up in the heart-warming, autobiographical coming-of-age story of a sad, lonely boy whose friendship with an extrovert Jack Russell terrier changes his life. Lane and Bacon provide stalwart support as the parents.

NURSE BETTY 18
RENÉE ZELLWEGER, MORGAN FREEMAN, GREG KINNEAR, CHRIS ROCK
106 MINS
Renée Zellweger is absolutely captivating in this deliciously offbeat, darkly comic gem as a sweet waitress and telly addict who longs to be a nurse but is hindered by her oafish, cheating husband. Witnessing his murder provokes a psychological trauma and she heads for Hollywood, believing she is the fiancée of the fictional doctor (Greg Kinnear) in her favourite hospital soap.

NUTTY PROFESSOR II: THE KLUMPS 12
EDDIE MURPHY, JANET JACKSON
102 MINS PREMIERE
Murphy fans get eight Eddies for the price of one in this crazy sequel to the misadventures of lovable, roly-poly Professor Sherman Klump. The shy, fat scientific genius's studly alter ego Buddy Love is on the loose again, vying for Sherman's fiancée (Jackson). This time his DNA's been mixed up with that of a dog, and even more alarmingly, the prof's rambunctious family (all played by the chuckling one) sample a flawed youth formula and run amok, most excruciatingly the rejuvenated, randy granny Klump. This is a riot of body function gags – be warned that Sherman's nemesis, college dean Larry Miller, gets ravished by a giant mutant hamster – but however shameless the bad taste bonanza there's no denying the remarkable special effects and make-up (by multiple Oscar winner Rick Baker, recently acclaimed for his work on Planet of the Apes), which allow Murphy's misbehaving comic creations to mingle astonishingly.

RAT PG
PETE POSTLETHWAITE, IMELDA STAUNTON 88 MINS PREMIERE
Quirky Irish comedy of Dublin housewife Staunton getting her own back on irresponsible husband Postlethwaite when he inexplicably metamorphoses into a white rat. While she's negotiating a book and film deal, rodent Hubert escapes the washing machine and other hazards, to a musical score co-written by Bob Geldof.

ROMEO MUST DIE 15
JET LI, AALIYAH
110 MINS PREMIERE
A disgraced Hong Kong cop escapes from prison and plunges into a San Francisco street war between Chinese and black gangs to avenge his brother's death. Further fateful complications arise when he falls for the daughter of his father's hated rival. Not to be confused with Shakespeare, this tough urban action drama boasts the balletic 'wushu' kung fu stylings of Li, hippest martial artist in Hollywood, with hip hop star DMX and the late R&B songstress Aaliyah in the cast and on the soundtrack adding to the contemporary cred.

RUNNING FREE U
CHASE MOORE, LUKAS HAAS (narrator)
81 MINS
Period drama of a boy and his horse. Lucky is bound for a life of hard labour, but a stableboy (Moore) helps him to realise his dream of freedom.

The family way: Nutty Professor II: The Klumps

*NOT ALL MOVIES ARE AVAILABLE IN ALL AREAS

SCARY MOVIE 18
ANNA FARIS, KEENAN IVORY WAYANS
85 MINS
The blockbusting Scream trilogy – which itself played with parody – inspired this cheerfully absurd spoof of the teen slasher flick genre.

SCREWED 15
NORM MacDONALD, ELAINE STRITCH
79 MINS
TV funnyman MacDonald stars as a disgruntled butler who kidnaps his employer's dog but botches the job, causing the rich witch to think it's her manservant who's been snatched.

Thumbs up for the Aussie comedy Soft Fruit

SHAFT 18
SAMUEL L JACKSON, CHRISTIAN BALE
95 MINS PREMIERE
Shaven-headed Sam Jackson is the man! Sporting black Armani and a mighty sexy, lean, mean 'tude, he is one cool dude as a maverick NYPD 'tec, cleaning up the mean streets like his uncle (cameoing Richard Roundtree, whose original Shaft is an enduring icon of 1970s blaxploitation) before him. When rich boy Bale walks away free from a race-hate murder, our man determines to take him down, embarking on an odyssey that involves drug dealing scum, corrupt cops and runaway witness Toni Collette in his crusade for justice. The afros and platform shoes are gone, but the chicks are still foxy and Isaac Hayes's unforgettable theme song sets a potent mood for some no-nonsense crime-fighting action.

SNATCH 18
JASON STATHAM, VINNIE JONES, BRAD PITT, BENICIO DEL TORO
99 MINS
A diamond thief, a Russian called Boris the Blade, a Gypsy boxer, sundry small-time hoodlums, pawnbrokers and illegal fight promoters cross paths to lethal and comically complicated effect in Guy Ritchie's audacious, highly entertaining follow-up to Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels. This serves to remind that Ritchie does the Brit gangster caper better than any of his many contemporaries.

SOFT FRUIT 18
JEANIE DRYNAN, LINAL HAFT
98 MINS PREMIERE
Rowdy Australian drama mixes laughter with tears when three estranged sisters are reunited to nurse their dotty, dying, Jackie Onassis-obsessed mother, while their violent Russian father keeps their ex-con, biker brother out of the house at gunpoint. This is a dysfunctional family with bells on and the characters are memorably brought to life.

3 STRIKES 15
BRIAN HOOKS, N'BUSHE WRIGHT
82 MINS PREMIERE
Record producer-turned-filmmaker DJ Pooh satirises criminal justice, media sensationalism and every urban 'hood movie as likable Hooks inadvertently finds himself atop LA's Most Wanted list. Antonio Fargas (still better known as the jive-talking Huggy Bear in Seventies cop series Starsky and Hutch) pops up to do the bodily function gags in the lowbrow antics.

TITAN A.E. PG
The voices of MATT DAMON, DREW BARRYMORE, BILL PULLMAN
91 MINS PREMIERE
After Earth (hence the initials) has been destroyed by alien invaders, an angry orphan and a ragtag band lead the space refugee remnants of humanity on a dangerous quest for truth and a new world. Cool CGI animated sci-fi is worth a break from the PlayStation.

TITUS 18
ANTHONY HOPKINS, JESSICA LANGE
156 MINS PREMIERE
Sir Anthony heads an arresting cast in a provocative treatment of Shakespeare's goriest tale (the Bard's biggest hit in his lifetime, when rape, mutilation, orgies, bloodthirsty vengeance and cannibalism were as popular as they are now) as the great Roman general who goes spectacularly bonkers in a decadent, disintegrating empire. Lange is an eyeful as depraved captive barbarian queen Tamora.

WHAT LIES BENEATH 15
MICHELLE PFEIFFER, HARRISON FORD
124 MINS PREMIERE
In a supernatural thriller from an idea by Steven Spielberg, beauteous, vulnerable Pfeiffer has cause to be alarmed when the battered wife next door mysteriously disappears. What's worse, things are going bump in the night in her own lovely country home, but hubby Ford is apparently too preoccupied with his professorial work to notice. Before long a ghostly apparition – with a disturbing resemblance to our heroine – is making her displeasure felt in increasingly menacing manifestations.

X-MEN 12
HUGH JACKMAN, PATRICK STEWART, IAN MCKELLEN, FAMKE JANSSEN
100 MINS
Human evolution has produced a mutant minority with assorted super-powers – the X-Men (and women), who, led by Professor Xavier (Stewart), protect mankind from the scheming, evil Magneto (McKellen).

The tale of a boy who dreams of dancing hit home with Julie Walters. Interview: Garth Pearce

JULIE WALTERS INSISTS THAT Billy Elliot was rightly hailed as the best British film of last year. Its simple, emotionally charged story about an 11-year-old son of a striking miner who dances his way to success, moved her to tears.

But the truth behind her role of dance teacher Mrs Wilkinson, Billy's guiding light amid the gloom of prejudice and struggle, is that it touched a nerve from her own past.

The small-budget film, set amid the terraced streets of the North East, brought back memories of her Black Country upbringing in Smethwick, and the sort of backlash she suffered herself by sticking to her own beliefs and ambitions.

'There was nothing fancy about my family,' she recalls. 'We lived in an end terrace house with chickens in the garden, a back yard and a side gate. We had no money to speak of.

'But I was taken out of that environment to attend a day school in Birmingham, where nuns beat me black and blue. My problems started when I refused to pronounce words like bath as "barth" – using the long "a", instead of the flat "a" sound that I was used to. I was hit and hit in elocution lessons by the nuns, who were determined that I should conform.

'I could not bring myself to change my accent. My dad said "bath" and "path" and "last" with a flat sound and it was as if I was betraying him and everything he stood for.'

Julie eventually persuaded her late mother, Mary, to change her school and she went to the local girls' grammar in West Bromwich. But she waited years to tell her the truth.

'My mother thought such an education would be a good start and wanted me to become something of a lady. She worked at Cadbury's in Bourneville, Birmingham, and my dad, Thomas, was a builder. So they were saving and scraping together money so I could be tortured by nuns.

'I might have been a very different person had I remained at that school. But, when I switched, everything was all right. I was with people I recognised and could talk to, without having to worry about how I pronounced certain words.'

Julie, 51, who still has the sound of the Black Country in her voice, was prompted by such memories to accept being the lone big name in Billy Elliot. 'The script was something I could really understand – trying to improve yourself in difficult circumstances,' she says.

In the film, set during the 1984 miner's strike, Billy (Jamie Bell) is sent to regular boxing lessons in the local hall by his widowed father (Gary Lewis). But he finds the nearby dance class, run by Julie's character, Mrs Wilkinson, far more attractive.

Julie, who earned her second Oscar nomination for her role – the first was for her movie debut in Educating Rita, 17 years ago – recalls: 'Jamie had to help me with my dancing – although my character was supposed to be teaching him.

'I am always a bit concerned for child actors. How far will they go? How will they react if they don't get any sort of success in the future? But, with Jamie, he's going to be all right. He knows who he is and is relaxed about the whole business.'

Julie was a late entrant to acting, having been a nurse in Birmingham for two years before joining a drama course at Manchester Polytechnic. She now lives in the Sussex countryside with husband Grant and 13-year-old daughter Maisie.

In the her latest film, The Memory of Water, completed in August, she was reunited with Educating Rita director Lewis Gilbert: 'I have had a great time in a job I really wanted to do,' she reflects. 'Billy Elliot is among my best moments.' cg

LORD OF THE DANCE For 15-year-old Jamie Bell, the role of Billy Elliot mirrored his own life, he tells Garth Pearce.

Jamie Bell was brought up by his mother, Eileen, after his father walked out before he was even born. It led to some lean times for him and sister Kathryn, who is five years older. But Jamie, who attends a mixed comprehensive school near his home in Billingham, Stockton-on-Tees, has, like his character of Billy Elliot, danced his way to success.

He won the role after attending a series of auditions in Newcastle-upon-Tyne when first-time director Stephen Daldry, 40, made it clear that he wanted a local boy from the North East who had not been trained at stage school.

'Billy is like me in that he does not give up easily,' says Jamie. 'When I was about eight, boys at school were saying things like: "Jamie – you should not be doing that. Dancing is for girls. You should play football". But I kind of ignored them and just got on with it. It didn't stop me from liking football – I have been an Arsenal fan since Mum bought me one of their shirts when I was seven.'

He was even watching football on television when Daldry phoned to let him know that he had won the role: 'I was looking at an old game from the 1980s, between Middlesbrough and Sunderland and was really caught up in it,' he says. 'Stephen told me I had the part and I was saying: "Yeah, okay, yes, yes ..." He finally asked me to pass over the phone to Mum and told her: "You would never think I had just offered him the lead in a film, would you?"

Of his mother, he says: 'It's taken a certain something to bring up my sister and me on her own, it's not been easy. She's my own Mrs Wilkinson – not bossy, but encouraging.'

Julia Roberts, Albert Finney, Aaron Eckhart

What could have been one of those TV movies 'based on a true story' about one woman's fight against evil industry is turned into something much bigger and better by fine direction and an Oscar-winning performance by Roberts. She's the feisty single mother who argues her way into a job with lawyer Finney, and eventually wins a legal battle against water polluters.

MAGNOLIA

Julianne Moore, Tom Cruise, William H Macy

A free-wheeling saga of mixed-up families, from the director of Boogie Nights. From the quiz-kid bullied by his dad to Cruise's woman-hating motivational speaker, the film is full of pain and anger, but there are also some poignant moments, mainly led by the wonderful Philip Seymour Hoffman, and a great soundtrack from Aimee Mann. Just watch out for the frogs!

HEAVEN CAN WAIT

Don Ameche, Gene Tierney, Charles Coburn, Laird Cregar

Delightful piece of witty Hollywood fantasy, lovingly photographed in Technicolor. The dapper Ameche plays Henry Van Cleve, a turn-of-the-century New Yorker who thinks he's been a bad boy. But as he tries to explain why he should join Satan in Hell, regular flashbacks reveal the truth about his life. Tierney is charming as Ameche's wife.

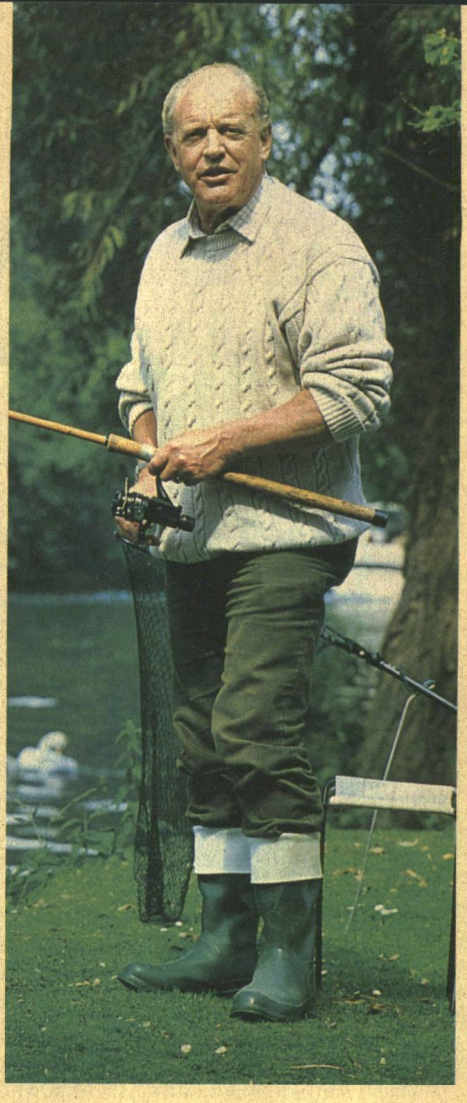
AGED 50-80?

"You cannot be turned down for this low-cost Life Insurance Cover"

Frank Windsor



It's a marvellous feeling to have a valuable life insurance policy tucked away safely somewhere. Yet many people aged over 50 don't have the protection they need.

"It's so easy to become under insured at our age," explains Frank Windsor. "Maybe you have policies that have lost their value through inflation. Cover supplied by an employer may have ceased on retirement. Or perhaps you have never enjoyed the benefits of life insurance. Now with the Sun Life Guaranteed Over 50 Plan you can secure a cash sum payable to your partner, family or friends to help provide for funeral expenses – or any other purpose you wish."

No medical

You are guaranteed life cover with this Plan without a medical examination. Without answering any health questions. Without having to see a doctor. Provided you are aged 50–80, you can apply for anything up to the very maximum cover available and it will be yours. And that cover is yours for life, if you wish. Post the coupon or phone free for full details and your personal quotation without obligation.

Easily affordable from £6 a month

You can obtain this valuable protection from as little as £6 a month – equivalent to 20p a day. Moreover, your payments are guaranteed never to increase however long you live or whatever your state of health in the future. Take a look at the table below to see just how much cover you can obtain.

As an added bonus, your death benefit will be trebled if you are killed as a result of an accident (or die within three months from injuries sustained in one) while travelling in a private car or as a fare-paying passenger by road, rail, sea or air anywhere in the world.

GUARANTEED DEATH BENEFIT AFTER 2 YEARS

Kim Newman

In the 1970s a funky new genre changed the way black characters were depicted. And so began the blaxploitation phenomenon

SOUL CINEMA

CRITICS AND FILM BUFFS argue about the beginnings of the 1970s 'blaxploitation' cycle. Some point to Melvin Van Peebles' independent Sweet Sweetback's Baad Asssss Song (1971), a revolutionary epic about dissing whitey, while others zero in on Ossie Davis's Cotton Comes to Harlem (1970), a cop thriller featuring Raymond St Jacques and Godfrey Cambridge as tough but funky Harlem detectives Coffin Ed Johnson and Gravedigger Jones. Both films brought something to the table – Sweet Sweetback's a Black Panther-tinged radicalism and a love of presenting greasily stereotyped white bad guys ('the Man'), Cotton a great soul soundtrack, funky threads and jive-talk.

But the real blaxploitation breakthrough came with Shaft (1971), the first mainstream hit movie to present a black hero who could hold his own with the likes of Eastwood or Bronson. John Shaft (Richard Roundtree), in his leather mid-coat, was 'the private dick who's a sex machine with all the chicks' and he took no bull from the Man, while helping to do battle against the sleazy Italian mafia.

Directed by Gordon Parks Sr, the movie was essentially an old-fashioned detective movie done black and Roundtree's smooth-talking superstud was hardly the role model Martin Luther King wanted to see on screen. That said, next to Sidney Poitier in the liberal likes of Guess Who's Coming to Dinner? Shaft at least had a radical wardrobe and a colourful vocabulary.

The success of Shaft led to a couple of sequels – Shaft's Big Score and the silly Shaft in Africa – plus a brief TV series and, decades on, a new entry with Samuel L Jackson as the original Shaft's nephew, which premieres on Front Row this month.

Shaft was on the side of the law, but the next popular black hero was Ron O'Neal in Superfly (1972), a street-hustling drug dealer with a serious taste in hats and flares, and there were even films (The Mack) in which the heroes were pimps.

After years of bit parts, black actors were suddenly getting good roles: he-man heroes included Jim Brown (Slaughter), Fred Williamson (Black Caesar), Jim Kelly (Enter the Dragon) and Oscar-winning Shaft composer-turned-actor Isaac Hayes (Truck Turner), while heroines who could do kung fu while wearing eight-inch platforms included the wonderful Pam Grier (Foxy Brown), Tamara Dobson (Cleopatra Jones) and Marki Bey (Sugar Hill).

Character actors like Yaphet Kotto, James Earl Jones, D'Urville Martin and even Richard Pryor specialised in minor cops, grifters, crooks, and wise-asses.

Following Cotton Comes to Harlem and Shaft, the typical blaxploitation film was an urban thriller, with evil white cops or crooks moving into the ghetto to give everyone a hard time, while the hero distracts himself from his usual pastimes (bedding a load of chicks) to pull on his best clothes, groove down to the funky soul soundtrack and blast away the baddies.

It was common practice for a while to remake proven hits with black leads – The Asphalt Jungle was redone as Cool Breeze and there's a weird scene-for-scene Get Carter remake called Hit Man with Bernie Casey. There were also black-themed Westerns (Soul Soldiers), horror films (Blacula, Blackenstein), and erotic epics (Black Lolita, Black Emmanuelle). The craze did seep into regular films, with most of B-movie king Roger Corman's 1970s women-in-prison pictures featuring at least one feisty Pam Grier type and oddments like The Thing With Two Heads, in which racist Ray Milland's head is grafted onto oversize soul brother Roosevelt Grier's shoulder.

Without blaxploitation, there probably wouldn't have been films like Rocky, which is practically an Italiansploitation picture, and recent homages include Abel Ferrara's King of New York, a redo of Larry Cohen's Black Caesar with a white lead (Christopher Walken), Quentin Tarantino's Jackie Brown, with Pam Grier, and the blaxploitation spoof I'm Gonna Git You Sucka!

These days, black movie stars are as likely to be comedy wiseacres as they are serious actors, such as Denzel Washington, Andre Braugher and Danny Glover. But Samuel L Jackson's new Shaft proves that the form could well take fire again. cg

Over-eating & Drinking IS NOT the main cause of a fat, flabby tummy

New research from the USA has revealed why men and women, from the age of about 25, tend to get a fat, flabby tummy. It is also now known how this can be avoided. There are actually 5 causes of a fat tummy. And these 5 causes were shown in the research to have nothing at all to do with excess fat.

Don't hide yourself away! You won't flatten your tummy by suddenly going on a starvation diet. It has also been shown that most well-known tummy exercises are of practically no use at all. All these don't work.

Why? Quite simple - because the tummy muscles are muscles which are not used during everyday activities. They are "inactive" muscles. This is the reason why the tummy muscles cannot simply be reactivated, unlike the arm muscles, for example. When you raise your glass, you automatically use your biceps - so they get shaped and strengthened! Everyday movements strengthen "active" muscles. But until these new findings it wasn't possible to strengthen and shape "inactive" muscles - and that includes the tummy muscles - by conventional methods and exercises. So bulging tummies and "spare tyres" had to be hidden under tent-like clothing.

THE 5 MAIN CAUSES

The 5 main causes of a flabby, bulging tummy are:

1. The peculiarities of the abdominal anatomy with countless different muscles, which make it impossible to target and train each tummy muscle by conventional methods.
2. The lower tummy muscles are smaller than the upper ones.
3. Other insufficiently developed and little-used muscles cause bad posture. So the tummy simply "hangs"down.
4. Bad and shallow breathing habits.
5. During pregnancy women often compensate for their "bump" by faulty posture (leaning backwards, rounding the back). And after giving birth they keep this posture out of habit.

A new device was invented not so long ago in the USA which can help restore flatness and muscles to the tummy and give you a slim, model-girl waist. But until recently it was only available to a select few celebrities like film stars, models and TV announcers or presenters who belonged to fitness clubs offering this exercise equipment. With one single exerciser costing hundreds of £££'s, membership and entrance fees can be rather exclusive too.

A SENSATIONAL INVENTION

But now here's a new device, a sensational invention which allows even "inactive" muscles to be exercised. The 5-minute Flab-Busting RoboRoller.

The 5-minute flab-busting RoboRoller is an American development which has been highly successful on the other side of the Atlantic!

Simply Roll forward and ease back

The 5-minute flab-busting RoboRoller brings nothing but benefits! The device has caused a revolution in fitness circles - especially where tummy training is concerned.

Results from the 5-minute flab-busting RoboRoller are amazing. In just one month you can reduce your tummy measurement by up to 15cm. And your muscles get rock-hard!

TYPICAL CORRECTED

One of the causes of a flabby, "hanging" tummy is that the lower abdominal muscles are smaller than the upper ones. This allows the intestines to push downwards (like the high pressure in an aircraft). The 5-minute flab-busting RoboRoller was developed to solve this problem. After pregnancy the tummy muscles are still very slack. If you then simply do normal tummy exercises (i.e. sit-ups) you don't get the best results. And you could also end up with back trouble. That's why the 5-minute flab-busting RoboRoller is specially recommended for use after giving birth.

HOW THE 5-MINUTE FLAB-BUSTING calorie counting RoboRoller WORKS

This revolutionary method from the USA gives maximum results with minimum effort. That's why the 5-minute flab-busting RoboRoller can be used anywhere and everywhere.

1. The integrated roll-back function allows easy but highly effective training with minimum effort.
2. The device is made of a special, very lightweight material. No maintenance or cleaning required.
3. The ergonomically shaped, specially developed handles make training very easy.
4. Uni-directional Guider wheel for maximum versatility.
5. Computer Displays Calories, Time elapsed and repetitions.

PICK OF THE DAY

Girl, Interrupted
Sky Premier 8.00pm
Winona Ryder, Angelina Jolie, Brittany Murphy
Based on the real-life experiences of the novelist Susanna Kaysen, this 1960s-set triumph of the spirit drama, follows a young girl's progress in a private American mental hospital. Winona Ryder plays the young writer who leaves behind her elite middle class homelife to cure her borderline personality disorder. Much to her surprise, it's not the hospital treatment but the wacky young female inmates who give her strength by teaching her the true meaning of friendship.

PICK OF THE DAY

Heaven Can Wait
Carlton Cinema 8.00pm
Don Ameche, Gene Tierney, Laird Cregar
Forget the sappy 1978 Warren Beatty movie of the same, this 1943 classic is the one to watch. Wealthy septuagenarian Henry Van Cleave (Ameche) breathes his last and his spirit heads south, confident that his dissolute life has guaranteed him a place in Hell. However, Satan (a wonderfully elegant Cregar) doubts his eligibility and Henry must convince His Excellency that his life was sufficiently sin-filled to warrant inclusion. A delight from start to finish.

PICK OF THE DAY

Billy Elliot
Julie Walters, Jamie Bell, Jamie Driven, Gary Lewis
Stephen Daldry's BAFTA Award-winning comedy drama won worldwide acclaim, not least because of the screen charisma of its young lead, Jamie Bell, and its winning soundtrack. Bell stars as 11-year-old Billy, a boy from a Durham mining community who, encouraged by a feisty dance teacher (Walters), dreams of a place at the Royal Ballet School. But his older brother and widowed father are caught up in the miners' strike of 1984 and ballet is the last thing on their minds.

PICK OF THE DAY

Dark Ages
ITV2 9.00pm
Themed commissions can be a dodgy business but this situation comedy, written to coincide with the end of the last millennium, at least features the comic talents of Phill Jupitus and impressionist Alistair McGowan. The year is 999, British sovereignty is under threat and everywhere people are prophesying the end of the world. Enter Gudrun (Jupitus), a 10th-century henpecked husband, whose wife Agnes (Pauline McLynn) is trying to go up in the world by marrying their daughter to Redwald (McGowan).

PICK OF THE DAY

Shaft
Samuel L Jackson, Vanessa L Williams, Christian Bale
Director John Singleton's charismatic reinvention of the 1971 blaxploitation classic sees Samuel L Jackson don the leather coat as the cop with attitude, fighting crime and corruption in the force and on the streets of New York. When a black man is murdered outside a restaurant by Walter Wade Jr (Bale), a tycoon's son Shaft – the nephew of the original crimebuster – is on the case and makes the arrest. Wade jumps bail and flees the country, but two years later, he comes back looking for revenge.

PICK OF THE DAY

Desert Blue
Sky Premier 10.40pm
Christina Ricci, Brendan Sexton, Casey Affleck
In this offbeat romantic drama, a sleepy Californian backwater is rudely awakened from its inertia by a mysterious accident. Teenage rebel Blue (Sexton) and his pals find their normally boring lives turned upside down when the FBI quarantines their town after a secret substance is spilled from a local soft drinks company truck following an accident. Against this unlikely setting, friendship and romance develop between the locals and those passing through.

PICK OF THE DAY

The Race
ITV2 7.00pm
While the rest of Boyzone struggle to come to terms with Ronan's solo success, the ever pragmatic ex-car mechanic Keith Duffy has been busily making a name for himself as a TV presenter. In this new series he hosts a unique global adventure series in which eight contestants compete for £50,000 prize money, travelling through 13 cities and across five continents. Armed with a handful of cash, the travellers will have to use every ounce of initiative they possess to complete the journey and collect the cash.

PICK OF THE DAY

Nutty Professor II: The Klumps
Eddie Murphy, Janet Jackson, Larry Miller
Eddie Murphy gets back into his fat suit in this comedy sequel. This time portly Professor Sherman Klump (Murphy) has decided he's going to rid himself of his motor-mouthed, super-cool alter ego Buddy Love once and for all, just in time for his marriage. With the help of fiancée Denise's (Jackson) DNA research, he sets out to counter his original formula and settle down to a fat future. Needless to say, Love has other plans and madness, mayhem and Murphy-morphing ensue.

PICK OF THE DAY

Beyond the Tears
LivingTV 3.00pm
With 38,000 women newly diagnosed with breast cancer in the UK each year, and over 13,000 losing the battle to the disease annually, the fear surrounding the condition is understandable. But this new documentary, showing as part of Breast Cancer Awareness Week, takes a more positive stance by talking to women who have come through their treatment feeling affirmed and even possessed of a new sense of freedom. The statistics are terrifying, but these brave women prove that finding a lump doesn't have to mean the end of the world.

PICK OF THE DAY

Holy Smoke
Sky Premier 10.25pm
Kate Winslet, Harvey Keitel, Julie Hamilton
Piano director Jane Campion casts Kate Winslet and Harvey Keitel as unlikely lovers in this drama. Ruth (Winslet) is an Australian girl who abandons her life in suburbia to sit at the feet of an Indian guru. Her worried parents arrange to bring her back with the help of PJ Waters (Keitel), an American who specialises in conversions. But when Waters takes Ruth to an isolated cabin, far from beginning his work, he finds himself powerfully attracted.

PICK OF THE DAY

Silent Witness
UK Gold 9.00pm, 1.20am
As quietly smouldering pathologist-cum-sleuth Sam Ryan played by Amanda Burton has won legions of fans in this dark crime drama. In this, the fourth series, we find Sam now a professor of pathology at London University. Still called upon in her capacity as an expert forensic pathologist, she is summoned to a terrible helicopter accident in a remote airfield in Lincolnshire. But as she examines the bodies of the dead she makes a discovery which threatens to rip through the small community nearby.

PICK OF THE DAY

Office Gossip
UK Gold 11.00pm
Pauline Quirke has proved there is a life for her beyond Birds of a Feather and has even dared to follow it up with this, her first sitcom since. Penned by Paul Mayhew-Archer (co-writer of The Vicar of Dibley), this comedy pairs her with Robert Daws of Roger Roger as secretary and boss at Tippings Toys Ltd. Much of the humour revolves around the standard office topics including the sexual shenanigans of fellow workers and boss and secretary Simon (Neil Stuke) and Maxine (Pippa Haywood).

PICK OF THE DAY

American Psycho
Sky Premier 10.00pm
Christian Bale, Willem Dafoe, Jared Leto
The adaptation of Bret Easton Ellis's shocking 1980s blackly comic novel features Christian Bale as a murderous New York yuppie. Patrick Bateman (Bale) is an attractive and affluent Wall Street high-flyer working in the money markets, whose only apparent abnormality is an obsession with the music of Huey Lewis. But underneath the slick exterior he's a psychopathic serial killer who reacts fatally to imagined slights or competitiveness.

PICK OF THE DAY

Happiness
Play 10.20pm, 1.30am
The Fast Show's Paul Whitehouse redirects his masterly comic talents to play a man in a midlife crisis in this comedy drama series. Danny (Whitehouse) is the creator and voice of a hugely successful animated bear called Dexter, but has just lost his wife, is hitting 40 and seeks solace in the company of his long-standing group of mates (including Fiona Allen, Pearce Quigley and Johnny Vegas). In today's episode he goes on a successful blind date but is reluctant to introduce 'posh' Emma to his friends.

PICK OF THE DAY

Gardens Unplugged UK Style 10.00pm
Garden designer Simon Harrison-Knibbs and artist Ryan Turrant transform small outdoor spaces into low-maintenance al fresco paradises in the second of this popular series. Travelling further afield this time to Scotland and Ireland, they tackle the most unusual briefs, from creating a special wheelchair-accessible garden to converting a tiny north London roof terrace into a thing of beauty. The pair have unusual methods and inspiration, utilising, for example, a salvage yard in Wandsworth called The House Hospital.

PICK OF THE DAY

Kevin and Perry Go Large
Sky MovieMax 8.00pm
Harry Enfield, Kathy Burke, Rhys Ifans, James Fleet
Harry Enfield's hit comedy creation makes it to the big screen in a comic romp in which Kevin, the hormonally-challenged teenager, goes to Ibiza to lose his cherry and gain street cred. At his side – along with his parents – is the equally gauche Perry (Burke) and together they plan to storm the island as 'loved-up DJs having it large.' In a plot suitably laden with below-the-belt humour, the duo seek out superstar DJ Eyeball Paul (Ifans) in their quest for celebrity status.

PICK OF THE DAY

Gladiator 8.00pm, 12.10am
Sky Premier
Russell Crowe, Joaquin Phoenix, Richard Harris
Ridley Scott's sword-and-sandal epic casts Russell Crowe – at his smouldering, hunky best – as a Roman general forced to fight his way back to the top. When cruel Commodus (Phoenix) becomes emperor, one of his first orders is to execute popular war hero Maximus (Crowe). Escaping death, Maximus is captured and then groomed as a gladiator. Needless to say, our valiant hero gets to wreak revenge on the emperor in a spectacular showdown at Rome's Colosseum.

PICK OF THE DAY

Action
E4 10.30pm
American comedy actor Jay Mohr's highly-acclaimed but short-lived comedy for the Fox network sends up the industry unmercifully and probably shot itself in the foot by doing so. With a respectable acting track record in many a Hollywood offering, including Jerry Maguire, Mohr knew the terrain and the stars who, tired of Hollywood's bland offerings, were equally happy to appear alongside him. In this episode, he goes in search of a new star for Beverly Hills Gun Club and ends up with an actor in rehab.

PICK OF THE DAY

Dick
Sky Premier 8.00pm
Dan Hedaya, Kirsten Dunst, Michelle Williams
This new take on the Watergate scandal features Dan Hedaya as President Nixon, foiled by two teenage girls (Dunst and Dawson's Creek's Williams). After taking a wrong turning on a White House tour, the girls stumble into a room filled with top-secret documents and are instantly given jobs as in-house dog walkers until the President can work out what to do with them. From there, it's all downhill, as the two girls fall right into the Watergate scandal.

PICK OF THE DAY

Garden Hopping
UK Style 1.00pm, 10.30pm
In case you're not aware of the National Gardens Scheme – in which enthusiastic members open their gardens to the public for a few days a year for charity – here's your chance to see what it's all about without stepping out of your door. Each episode features a different garden where expert Daphne Ledward answers the questions of some of the scheme's members. Today's edition comes from Rowden Gardens on Dartmoor, home to an inspirational water garden.

KEEPING the faith

Newcastle United have a decent home record against Spurs. But United keeper Shay Given is anything but complacent as he prepares for their meeting this month. Interview: Jeremy Butler

When Newcastle United face Tottenham Hotspur at St James' Park, United goalkeeper Shay Given has the daunting task of keeping the visitors' international-class strike force at bay. And the Republic of Ireland number one admits the quality of the Spurs midfield will ensure it's not just the strikers he'll be looking out for.

Gustavo Poyet is one of the Premiership's finest free-scoring midfielders, and Darren Anderton has been known to bulge the net from a distance with his guided missiles.

In recent years, United have trounced Spurs 7-1 in the League and 6-1 in the FA Cup on Tyneside, and last season they recorded a comfortable 2-0 victory over the Londoners. Newcastle also triumphed 2-0 when the two teams met in an FA Cup semi-final in April 1999. But Given is taking nothing for granted.

'The Premier League is one of the best in the world,' Given says. 'You come across top-class players every week and it will be no different against Spurs. They've got a lot of talented attackers, such as Teddy Sheringham, Sergei Rebrov, Darren Anderton and Gus Poyet, and I know they'll test us.

'Rebrov is a quick player and an excellent finisher and Teddy, despite his age, was Player of the Year last season. And it's important we keep an eye out for the runs from midfield of people like Poyet and Anderton.

'They've got Glenn Hoddle in charge – he did a very good job at Southampton and I'm sure he'll do the same thing at Spurs. He is tactically very clever and will have worked out ways to push us and get players into dangerous positions. But we won't be going into the game fearing them. Our season has started well with our Intertoto Cup run and we feel we're going places under Bobby Robson.'

Newcastle agonisingly missed out on qualifying for the Uefa Cup on away goals after a dramatic 4-4 home draw with French club Troyes.

But they displayed resolve in Premiership fixtures either side of that European near miss, as they took a point from tough games against Chelsea and Sunderland.

For Given, the memory of the 1-1 meeting at Chelsea is still fresh in the mind after he embarrassingly allowed Dutch winger Boudewijn Zenden's long-range shot to squirm under his body.

Given admits: 'It's been a while since I made a mistake like the one against Chelsea, and I could have picked a better day for it. After that error, I was relieved the lads dug out a result for me. To be honest, the games against Chelsea and Troyes weren't the best for me. I know I'm better than I was in those games but the manager stood by me and I've got to thank him for that.

'Steve Harper is breathing down my neck all the time and the manager had the chance to put him in. But by picking me again, he showed a lot of faith in me.'

Despite Robson refusing to snatch his shirt away this time, Given has felt the frustration of sitting on the Newcastle bench before.

After starting last season as Newcastle's undisputed first-choice keeper and signing a new contract, he picked up an injury and was replaced by Harper. When he didn't recapture his place as soon as he was fit again, he slapped in a transfer request that was not accepted by the club.

But when Harper himself picked up an injury, Given returned between the sticks and proceeded to give a string of top-class performances.

Although Newcastle failed to keep a clean sheet in League and cup competitions from 30 September to 28 April, a run of 29 matches, the Republic of Ireland international was absolved from blame as he continued to set high standards.

Given, whose previous clubs include Blackburn Rovers and Celtic, admits: 'We got a lot of stick last season and deservedly so. The run of games without a clean sheet became a joke, to be honest. But we started this season with a couple of clean sheets against Sporting Lokeren in the Intertoto Cup and things are looking bright here for the team and me. I've heard talk in the past about being linked with some big clubs, but I'm already at one of the biggest clubs in the country and I'm happy to be here.

'Bobby Robson has always said he wants to keep me and that's what I want to hear. I know I'll get tested week in, week out at Newcastle. The club has been very good to me – the fans and the stadium are fantastic, and this is the only club I want to play for.'

Given and Harper may be rivals for the coveted number one jersey, but they are firm friends. They train together and help each other out, but it is advice that Given received in his formative years that has stood him in good stead throughout his career. He says: 'I've always been told, from when I was young, that you don't get anywhere without hard work. You need talent but you also need to work hard to succeed.'

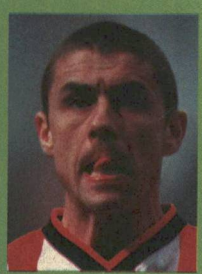
ON THE SPOT

That Kevin Phillips was written off last season for only scoring 15 goals is evidence of the expectation surrounding the accomplished Sunderland striker. Luke Nicoli asks Phillips to explain himself

What's the most memorable match you've played in and why?
My England debut sticks in the memory for obvious reasons. Although I was still a First Division player at the time, I was playing well for Sunderland in our championship-winning season and Kevin Keegan picked me for the friendly out in Hungary. To wear the three lions was something I'd dreamed about since I was a kid and I almost capped the appearance with a goal. I lined up alongside Alan Shearer that night and the fact that I linked up well with him proved that I wasn't out of place at that level.

Who's your footballing hero and why?
I've never had one particular hero, but as a kid I used to love watching the great strikers like Ian Rush, Kenny Dalglish and Gary Lineker. All had that instinctiveness around the box that made them such fantastic goal-scorers. I also used to love watching Ian Wright in his Arsenal days; when he was at his peak at Highbury, nobody could touch him. He had pace, power, agility, the lot. And he used to play the game with a smile on his face.

Which team do you support and why?



Arsenal. It was a strange old situation in my house because I come from a Spurs-supporting family and when I was a kid, I remember my dad decorated my room in Spurs colours. But one Saturday, my uncle took me to Highbury and I was hooked. It was during the time when George Graham took over the club and I used to love watching all the young players coming through: Tony Adams, Paul Merson, David Rocastle, Michael Thomas. There was also a certain Niall Quinn playing for the club at the time and I often remind him that I used to watch him on the North Bank – just to make him feel that little bit older!

What's the best piece of footballing advice you've been given?
My dad always drummed it into me that the discipline side of the game is as important as any ability you might have. Even in my early days playing non-league football for Baldock, he was the one who made sure I stayed in on a Friday night, so that I would be in tip-top condition the next day. If it wasn't for him, I wouldn't be in the position I am today.

So has your England dream come to an end?
Not at all. I know I've got the ability to score goals for my country and I'm hoping to be given the chance under Sven-Göran Eriksson. Last season was a bit stop-start for me, which didn't help my cause. It was difficult because I missed the entire pre-season with a knee injury. I still managed to score 15 goals, but such is the expectation on me that it was deemed a bad season. I felt really sharp this pre-season, so I'm hoping to reach my 20-goal target. I know the competition for England places is hot, but we've got Arsenal and Manchester United this month, as well as a derby against Middlesbrough [live on Sky Sports], so if I can do well in those games, it should put my name back in the shop window.

Wing commander

The Republic of Ireland have acquitted themselves well in a hard-fought World Cup campaign – and winger Damien Duff is praying a miracle will help the side bypass the dreaded play-offs. Interview: Darren Bentley

DAMIEN DUFF is praying the luck of the Irish will end a hat-trick of play-off heartaches. The Republic of Ireland wide man knows that fate lies elsewhere ahead of the final match of a thrilling World Cup qualifying campaign. Even the narrowest Portuguese victory over Estonia this month would leave Mick McCarthy's boys needing a cricket score against minnows Cyprus the same day to nick top spot in Group Two.

The unthinkable alternative is a nail-biting play-off against an Asian qualifier for the right to compete in next summer's World Cup carnival in Japan and South Korea.

And after seeing his country miss out on the last three major finals at the last hurdle – to Holland ahead of Euro 96, Belgium for the 1998 World Cup and Turkey in Euro 2000, Duff is praying for a miracle in Lisbon.

'I'm just keeping my fingers crossed that Figo and co make a real mess of it'

Wing shift: Damien Duff in action for the Republic of Ireland and, above, being congratulated by his team-mates after scoring the first goal in August's international against Croatia

The 22-year-old Blackburn Rovers favourite, who is aiming to terrorise the Cypriots at a packed Lansdowne Road, admitted: 'We definitely have to hope that Portugal slip up. But they have Estonia at home and the chances of that happening are very slim. They are a world-class team and I can't see them having any problems. 'The chances of us scoring eight or nine goals against Cyprus is even slimmer, despite us winning 4-0 over there. The pressure is on to score goals and we'll be going all-out to do that, but the reality is we have to pray for the unexpected if we are to qualify outright.

'We've lost three times running in play-offs, so no-one is even contemplating what might happen this time. Hopefully, if the worst comes to the worst, this will be fourth time lucky. I've already seen us lose to Holland, Belgium and Turkey – not the easiest teams in the world to beat. This time we don't have a clue who it would be, but it would still be the dreaded play-offs. The only saving grace is that whoever we get, we are well capable of beating them because of the way we are playing.'

The mystery Asian play-off opponents will come from one of either China, The United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Bahrain, Iran, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Uzbekistan, Oman and Thailand – although qualification remains in the lap of the Gods. However, Duff admits he has already set his sights on a tricky trip around the world in order to achieve his lifelong dream.

He added: 'It would be a step into the unknown because we wouldn't know much about them and there would be a lot of travel involved. That would make it very tricky, but looking back we would have settled for a play-off place before the group started, so we can't be too disappointed.

'It's been without doubt the best qualifying competition the Irish have ever been involved in and people were saying the atmosphere in Dublin when we beat Holland was the best ever.

'Certainly beating the Dutch was the highlight of my career so far. It was just unbelievable to beat a team full of world-class players and stop them from qualifying.

'It's every young lad's dream to be playing for your country in a major final. I've been lucky to play in two Youth World Cups in Nigeria and Malaysia and they were both great experiences, but this would be on another plane altogether.

'I can't wait to see what happens and I'm just keeping my fingers crossed that Figo and co make a real mess of it.'

Once the Irish jigs have wound down, Duff will then turn his mind to domestic matters as Blackburn Rovers take on troubled Leicester City in front of the Sky Sports cameras. And the game later this month could prove to be something of an old-boys reunion for Duff, who will be hoping to get the better of former Rovers' team mates Tim Flowers and Callum Davidson: 'I know Tim and Callum quite well from their time here and it will be good to cross paths with them again.

'Leicester haven't had the best of starts and the manager was under pressure almost from the first game when Bolton won 5-0. But they will both be out to prove a point against a former club and we'll have to be at our best to beat them.'

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL

Sky Sports 2 Saturday 6th 2.00pm

England under Sven-Göran Eriksson have become a credible force in world football again, with captain David Beckham (pictured below with Michael Owen) inspiring a team which combines the talent of Paul Scholes and Owen with a system of play that provides comfort even when things go wrong. Victory in today's match against Greece at Old Trafford should ensure automatic qualification in next year's Finals.

SCOTTISH FOOTBALL

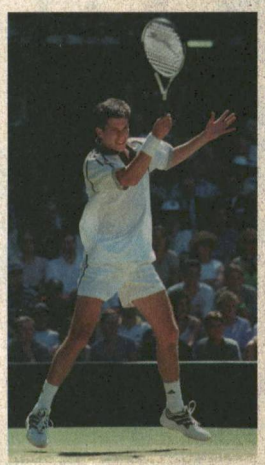
Sky Sports 1
Saturday 27th 5.30pm

Fans of Scottish Premier League newcomers Livingston have dreamt for years of fixtures like today's – at home to glamorous Glasgow Rangers. Livvy supporters will see a Rangers team full of talent imported from the English Premiership in the last couple of seasons as they chase neighbours Celtic. They include Michael Ball, newly arrived from Everton, and Tore Andre Flo (above) from Chelsea.

DUNHILL LINKS CHAMPIONSHIP

Sky Sports 1
Thursday 18th 12.30pm

A new-style two-man pro-am event – the Dunhill Links Championship – launches this year with celebrities like Chris Evans and Sean Connery set to join top European pros like Colin Montgomerie, Lee Westwood and Darren Clarke (below). Some 156 pros pair up with amateurs for the four-day event, over three courses, including Carnoustie and the Old Course at St Andrews. There will be both a pro individual and team prizes to be won.



ATP TENNIS

British Eurosport
Tuesday 9th 7.00pm

The men's tennis season reaches Vienna with the CA Tennis Trophy, which has a prize fund of $800,000. Britain's Tim Henman (above) defends a title he won by beating Germany's Tommy Haas in last year's final. Now Tim needs more consistency with his serve to rise to the top of the rankings.

RUGBY LEAGUE

Sky Sports 3
Sunday 28th 5.30pm

The sport of rugby league may be said to be in jeopardy, but a tour by the Australian Kangaroos is always enough to set plenty of pulses racing. This evening's visit by the World Champion tourists to meet the mighty Bradford Bulls at Valley Parade will be among the toughest of challenges. The Bulls' will hope to utilise the talents of Kiwi international half-back Robbie Paul (below) against the force of the Aussies.

ALAN CURBISHLEY

A flat back four or 3-5-2? Alan makes arguments for both systems, outlines his match-day preparations and gives advice on how to approach half-time talks

ON MATCH DAY I do the team talk an hour before kick-off and let the players know exactly what they're up against and what I'm after. I then try to have a quick talk to individual players. Our first-team coach, Mervyn Day, finishes off by outlining the set-plays and letting the players know who they're going to be marking. Assistant manager Keith Peacock takes over in the dressing-room after all that and has a few one-to-one chats with those players who haven't been performing as well as they can, or those who have a tough job on their hands.

We decided on a few occasions last season that if a team changed its shape, then so would we. And we felt comfortable in doing that, and were confident that, for instance, if we started off with a back four, we could switch to a 3-5-2 formation if we wanted to, because we had the personnel to do it.

But several times, teams adapted to us. And I think that's the great thing about the Premiership – you can turn up on the Saturday and not be sure how your opponents will approach the game. It's different every week, whereas in the First Division you basically know what you're going to get.

For long periods Charlton played predominantly 4-4-2, and we had a lot of success in the First Division playing that formation. But we went for three at the back a lot last season because we were playing to our strengths. At any given time we were able to field a strong three-man midfield and we had two full-backs who were comfortable as wing-backs – Chrissie Powell and Radostin Kishishev. So we were quite versatile – and you have to be versatile in the Premiership.

Managers like to work out systems and shapes prior to games but sometimes, because of the natural flow of the game, you wouldn't know what the shape is. I often think when I'm sitting in the stands, that if I was to stop a match at any given point, I wouldn't know what system was being played, because players tend to wander all over the pitch. Beckham, for instance, drifts around and then causes real damage to the opposition.

Early on in my managerial career I always sat in the dug-out. But for the last couple of years, I've found it more helpful to go up into the stands, where you get a better idea of the action. I sit upstairs for much of the game, although, obviously, if there's only 10 or 20 minutes left and it's not going too well, I may need to get down there and make substitutions.

I always take notes during the match. I normally jot down around 10 points. It's nothing scientific – perhaps one of the players isn't getting in tight enough, or one of the full-backs is tucking in too much and leaving too much space. When you get to half-time, you want to make sure a player knows that he's losing his man, or whatever, and that it could cost us. It's easy to rant and rave in the dressing room then forget what you wanted to say, but I want to make sure I get my point across.

'Sometimes, because of the natural flow of the game, you wouldn't know what the shape is'

You have to vary your approach to the half-time talks. Sometimes you walk into the dressing room and don't say anything. Sometimes you quietly go through the problems, and other times you have to have a real blast at the players. But if you continually do the same thing, it's not going to work – if you throw cups at the wall all the time, it doesn't have the required effect after a while.

But it must be difficult for players to be responsive to shouted instructions from the sidelines during the game. What I prefer to do is call the nearest player over and make sure I get my point across and ask them to go and relay it to the rest of the team. When we went to Arsenal last season, Arsène Wenger sat down the whole game. I asked their assistant manager, Pat Rice, why and he said, 'Arsène thinks if we're all jumping up and down screaming in the dug-out, what sort of effect does that have on the players?'

You can also use your captain to get your message across, knowing full well that the rest of the players will respect his words. I may tell our captain, Mark Kinsella, things that I wouldn't tell the rest of the team. If I say to him, 'Look, if things go wrong then we may change after 10 minutes,' then, of course, I don't want the other players to worry about being changed or about being taken off. CG
